EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

The Ohio idea this year is that the Democracy must not be trusted.

There was a panic in oil last week, also in the Democratic party.

Wherever Carl Schurz spoke in Ohio the Republican majorities were largest.

The news from Ohio, when it struck London, put out every light in the Cobden Club.

The Democrats now believe that there was too much "Mulligan" and not enough "Tariff" talk in Ohio.

Vice-Presidential Candidate T. A. Hendricks has been an enemy of the soldier and the Union during his entire public life.

No true friend of Prohibition will vote for St. John and thus aid in the election of an intemperate man such as Cleveland.

The German voters of Ohio: "On the whole, we decidedly prefer the payment of wages on the American plan to the European plan."

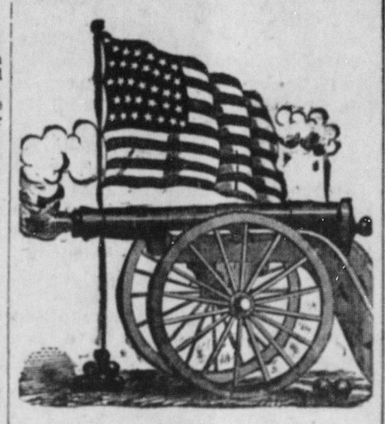
The Republicans have made no nomination for Congress. Now, let the Democratic Judicial Conference adjourn without making a nomination. One good turn deserves another.

Blaine helped the Union cause by his speeches and votes in the National Congress and Logan went into the field, exposing his life for the cause of truth. Where were Cleveland and Hendricks at that time which tested men's bravery?

Newark, N. J., indulged in a city election on Tuesday, the 14th, and made remarkable Republican gains. The gain in the city by the Republicans, was about 1,500 votes. At this rate, New Jersey will be overwhelmingly Republican in November.

Governor Cleveland now believes that the "hippodroming" business is profitable and has began it himself. For examples, his recent visits to Buffalo, New York and Brooklyn. But the Governor should be informed that it makes considerable difference as to who is the attraction of the hippodrome, and he hasn't a tithe of the magnetisin which attaches to Blaine.

Republican Triumphs in Two States.



Ohio Gives a Republican Majority of 18,418 on the Congressional Vote.

Republican Gain of 355 in West Virginia.

Latest Summary of Election Returns.

The victory won by the Republicans in Ohio and West Virginia last week was greater than was predicted before the day of the election. In Ohio the Republicans secured a majority of 18,418 of the votes for members of Congress and the pluralities for the state officers are as follows.

C. A. Flickinger, Board of Public Works, 17,476.

W. W. Johnson, Supreme Court Judge, 15,450.

James S. Robinson, Secretary of State, 11,321.

It takes a long time to get the returns from the backwoods districts of West Virginia, but complete returns from fifty of the fifty-four counties in that State give a Democratic majority of only 2856, which is 355 less than the Democratic majority of 1882.

Taking the highest plurality of a State official in Ohio, that for C. A. Flickinger, 17,476, and comparing that with the Democratic plurality of 1883, which was 12,529, we have a Republican gain of 29,005. That is what the Watchman and a few other Democratic organs are rejoicing about, when the truth is they have lost in both Ohio and West Virginia and Cleveland is as dead as if Maria Halpin had given him a dose of poison.

Ohio Redeemed.

The Republicans, in Ohio, on the 14th, had fearful odds against them. There was a Democratic majority of more than 12,000 last year to overcome. Two of the Republican State candidates were on record as Prohibitionists which prejudiced the saloon vote against them. The Democrats were thoroughly organized and spent hundreds of thousands of Standard Oil money in the purchase of votes.

At this writing, the official return has not been made, but it will not be far from 12,000 Republican majority, which is a victory beyond previous calculation, as the Democrats claimed the State. It is a change of 24 000 from 1883, and it means a larger majority in November. The Philadelphia North American makes the following pertinent remarks in reference to it:

"No struggle in so limited a field during the last thirty years has equalled it in intensity, and perhaps none ever equalled it in the desperation of its methods. The Democrats entered upon the struggle as upon the struggle for life, knowing that they could not afford to lose Ohio after carrying it in 1882 and 1883. To them the loss of Ohio means the vanishing of hope. Nowhere else outside the old slave States had they so little to gain and so much to lose.

"To Republicans the result in Ohio means reclamation of their own, and reclamation in the teeth of odds that might well have clouded the field with doubt up to the present day. Though Ohio is a Republican State, and though the Republicans have carried it twenty-four times in twenty-eight years, local issues and unhappy dissensions in the party had well nigh converted a majority into a minority party. Though the loss of Ohio in October would not necessarily have determined the struggle for Republicans, we have not at any time said or thought that we could afford to lose Ohio. The effect of the victory cannot fail to be very great. It will elate the hearts and hopes of Republicans, while it will plunge the Democracy into gloom and discouragement. The Republicans might have lost Ohio in October and reclaimed it in November, but the Democracy, having lost it, with all the advantage of possession and local issues adverse to Republican success, cannot hope to reclaim it. The loss to them is final and utter.

"The Republicans have won a great victory in Ohio. Not the most inveterate of their opponents will deny that. But the value of victory depends upon its uses. We do not regard the result in Ohio as the determining struggle. It simply teaches Republicans that they can win in November if they will. But they must will, they must relax no effort, they must maintain a sleepless vigilance, and they must act. They have wrested Ohio from the grasp of the opposition despite all that opposition, hampered by no scruples, and reinforced by the money of overbearing monopolists, could do. It is, indeed, a great victory, and perhaps the greatest ever won under similar circumstances. From the first Republicans had no more than a fighting chance in Ohio, and only by forcing the fight could they expect victory. They forced the fighting, and most gallantly. They fought as men who know the odds is against them, yet are in dead earnest, only can fight.

"If now they make a wise use of victory, the last doubt of the result in November will disappear. As the victors made the issue upon protection, the victory teaches that the people are able to lay aside local issues and devote their energies to the settlement of an issue vital in its bearing and supreme in its importance. But let none assume that the battle is ended. We are now in the midst of one of its pauses. The opposition is dismayed, but it has not surrendered. Let none assume that the result in Ohio has annihilated the Democracy. Parties are not annihilated at a blow. The word is "Work!" the watchward—"They win who work?"

The Lock Haven Express, in speaking of the action of the late Republican congressional conference, says: "We deprecate the action of the Republican conference of this district in not making a nomination. Had a good candidate been placed in the field several weeks ago we believe it would have been for the best interest of the party and the Republicans would have been in a better position to witness the unterrified of the twentieth district fight each other. Now, the Republicans are compelled to choose between candidates not members of their party. We believe it to be a great mistake and we think that the result will prove our position to be the right one." The Express may be right, but there is this about it: Mr. Curtin is perhaps more acceptable to a great many Republicans than a free trade Democrat would have been. A Republican cannot be elected in this district. Mr. Curtin would not be in the field if a Republican had been nominated weeks ago. If, however, either Democratic candidate expects a walk over he will be much mistaken. Mr. Curtin cannot get the entire Democratic vote of even his own county. The Republican vote is at sea and will not all go to Curtin. This makes the result at least, in a degree uncertain. The Republicans, too, being without a candidate, will look more to their party papers for guidance than usual. Then there is Rynder, the labor candidate, who under different circumstances would not have received one hundred votes in the district. Who can say now how much lightning may strike this champion of labor? He is a Protectionist of the most pronounced school; was a Republican years ago and was never a Democrat; was a soldier during the war, enlisting as a private and coming home an officer; is a good public speaker and if he had some money could warm up this campaign so as to throw into it more elements of doubt than even now exist. He is a poor man, but suppose some party or parties bent on mischief should furnish Rynder with the sinews of war?

Aristocratic Candidate.

The Democrat reiterates the silly fling of the Watchman that A. O. Furst, Esq., Republican candidate for judge, is an aristocrat. What either of these papers intend to be understood by the term aristocrat probably neither one could well define. This charge has been made time and again against any number of candidates, in this county. The purpose, the dullest mind can at once understand, being made on the supposition that the common voter has such a hatred to the man who may be a little more fortunate than some who have had less opportunities—that he would do him an injury whenever the opportunity might occur. It is made on the supposition that a large class of votes are governed by a mean, narrow prejudice and is an insult to free sovereign Americans, and one that they should be rather more disposed to resent than otherwise. At least, they should treat it with supreme contempt. The fact is that, Mr. Furst is and always has been, one of the most affable and approachable of men; one who always has a pleasant word for all rich and poor, high and low, whom he is brought in contact with or meets on our public thoroughfares; a man who has always been a friend to the poor, as hundreds can testify who have been helped and encouraged by him; a man who charges the rich well for service but who has done more work for the poor for nothing than any other lawyer at the Bellefonte bar; a man who has settled many a poor estate free that the widow and orphan might not suffer, and has afterwards done their business free for years, helped them to invest their little all and given advice as to its care without one cent of pay. If this is aristocracy then how the state would be blessed if there were many more such aristocrats in our midst.

H. G. Royer.

For sheriff of Centre county the Republicans have placed before the people H. G. Royer, of Miles township, a man in every way qualified and worthy of the position—the man who should, and we believe will, be elected. He is a man against whose good name no stain or reproach has ever fastened. It is true that whenever a man is presented for office opposing factions take hold of every circumstance that may by any misconstruction be distorted into an act of disrepute, and voters should be slow to believe campaign lies that are circulated against good men. But Mr. Royer is known. The voters in this case are asked, as it were, to vote for a neighbor, and each voter may, if he will, learn the truth or falsity of a story circulated against our local candidate. In voting for officers for the county the voter should seek to place in office good men who have been fairly nominated without the aid or influence of any corrupt combination. Candidates for office should be chosen by the people whom they are to serve and no voter should feel it a duty to vote for a man not his choice because some corrupt combination has succeeded by "ways that are dark" in nominating a man on whom he would not have conferred the honor. What all should seek is a man thoroughly honest and capable, one who will if elected administer the office economically. Such a man is H. G. Royer; therefore, we say vote for Royer for Sheriff.

A Vindication.

In the issue of the Centre Hall Reporter of a recent date there appeared a communication making charges reflecting upon the character of H. G. Royer, Republican candidate for Sheriff. We did not read the communication and do not know the nature of the charges. But Mr. Royer's neighbors became indignant and prepared the communication printed below, which the Reporter published on the 15th inst. As the gentlemen who prepared the communication are Democrats, and as it is a splendid testimonial to Mr. Royer's high character and worth, we also give space to it in the columns of this journal:

Rebersburg, Pa., Oct. 10, '84.

Editor Reporter—Dear Sir: An article having appeared in your last issue impugning the private character of our neighbor, Henry G. Royer, we deem it but due to Mr. Royer to say that we, having known him for many years, consider him to be a man of honesty and integrity, esteemed by all fair-minded citizens, and that he would be incapable of committing the indiscretions with which he is charged in the article alluded to. We make this statement not to "boom" Mr. Royer's chances for Sheriff, as we are Democrats and have our candidate, but as a matter of justice to a worthy citizen and neighbor who has been misrepresented.

As the Republican Congressional Conferees adjourned without making a nomination our party in this district is left without a candidate to vote for to represent us in the next National House of Representatives. If the Republicans do as the Democratic papers are urging all Democrats to do viz: "Vote for none but Democrats, they will vote blank for congress. If some few should not want to be as selfish as their Democratic opponents they can take their choice from the three men that are now in the field, or any other candidate self nominated or otherwise who may "bob up serenely" as the only man in the district fit to represent the dear people in this honorable position. The times are now pregnant with great possibilities.

While a candidate for office cannot reasonably expect to receive a third term in this Republican country, it is quite customary to give him a second term, particularly because during the second term he is more familiar with the duties of the position and can fulfill them efficiently. Mr. H. C. Campbell has been Commissioner only one term, and as he has done and is doing so much for the county, its citizens will certainly elect him again.

The congressional gains in Ohio go far towards settling the political complexion of the next House of Representatives. They show that the districts lost by the Republicans by the Democratic tidal wave of 1882 are returning to their natural allegiance in 1884, and with their return the control of the House will revert to the Republican party.

If the Democratic organs can be induced to keep industriously at the scandal business for the rest of the month there will be doubts whether Cleveland will get a Northern State. There are signs that the American people are getting tired of taking its politics straight from the sewers.

No man who called Lincoln "a smutty old tyrant" will ever be elected vice-president of the United States This truth must have begun to dawn upon Thomas A. Hendricks by this time.

Is it because Adam Hoy, Esq., is an aristocrat that the Democratic Judicial Conference fails to give him the nomination?

It is rumored that Cleveland was assaulted by a newspaper reporter in Albany on Monday night.

Republicans are wearing new hats.

FARMER LEE'S CONVERSION.

LIBBIE J. SHERMAN.

"Haste to the window, Jonathan,
Where is my cane? Dear me!
Why, what an orful racket there,
What kin the trouble be?"
"Them colts of Jimmy Green's—you guess
In tryin' to run away—
Have throwed their load all over
From the hill-top, did you say?"
"Well, here's your coat, and Jonathan,
You'd best go up the hill,
For mayhap suthin or nuther
Has happened to James of ill.
And here's your hat, too, Jonathan;
Your's aff stands by the wall,
Tie this about your throat, and John,
Be keerful you don't fall."

"Dead? Why yes, Salina, he was
E'en a'most, when I reached his side,
He only gin a gasp or two,
Turned part way over and died.
He might a lived if only
On the ground he'd a got that knock
But you see when he fell down
He came right on the solid rock.
He'd been a whippin them horses,
Them as seen it, said, a sight,
But then he'd never a done it
If he hadn't been so tite.
His wife is eenamost crazy,
I told it her, arter talkin a spell,
She otter be reconciled tew
The will of the Lord. Ah well!
It didn't du no kind o' good,
She just sot there and cried;
I guess 'twould a made your heart ache,
If you had only hearn her side.
And go to thinkin it over
As I was a cummin hum,
'Twant so much the will o' the Lord
As 'twas the cussed rum.

'Sumhow I couldn't but think
What if our John tew night
Was lyin as Jimmy Green is,
So still and cold and white.

WARSAW, N. Y.

SHE MARRIED MY FATHER.

She was our village belle
Hear me tell
How she flirted with the teacher
And the single village preacher
And the swell.

She said she was eighteen.
Was I green?
Sev'ral slender streaks of gray
That through her hair did stray
Could be seen.

And to the church she often went
Most intent
On all the preacher said.
And at his prayers her head
Low she bent.

Then she'd glance across the aisle
At the style
That the village swell would fling.
She'd think to win a ring
And his pile.

And then behind her fan
She would scan.
And the teacher's jealous look,
As his face rose over his book,
Thin and wan.

But she wed none of these three.
Woe is to me!
For my father wooed another,
And I have a second mother,
It is she!

SHE WHISTLED.

Oh, whistle, daughter, whistle,
And you shall have a cow;
I never whistled in my life,
And I can't whistle now.

Oh, whistle, daughter, whistle,
And you shall have a man;
I never whistled in my life,
But I'll whistle if I can.

Our Story Teller.

Brave in Adversity.

At Mr. Lonsdale's aristocratic mansion the earliest letters were brought in with the rolls and coffee, so that Mrs. Lonsdale was languidly eating orange marmalade when her husband read out the contents of the letter with the black edge which had just come from Moon Mountain.

"Left a widow!" echoes Mrs. Lonsdale, "and with six daughters. What a very unpleasant circumstance!"

"She was my favorite cousin," said Mr. Lonsdale, "as bright a girl as I ever saw. I suppose, Naomi,"—with a little hesitation—"we could take her in here?"

"Take her in here!" repeated Mrs. Lonsdale almost in a scream. "Why, where could we put a widow and six young women? We actually haven't space enough to accomodate ourselves."

"Well, well, I'm sorry for poor Mary," said Mr. Lonsdale, "I think she had the bluest eyes I ever saw. Six daughters and we never had one. Perhaps Naomi,"—with the same old hesitating formula—"you wouldn't like to adopt one?"

"Thank you," satirically observed his wife. "When I do receive an adopted child into my house, it will not be the country article."

At the solitary little farm on Moon Mountain, however, the same topic was being discussed while Mrs. Drix was sewing on the simple mourning which the bereaved family could afford.

Helen was washing the dishes, Rosie was darning the carpet with a piece of woolen yarn of the same color, and Lizzie was trimming seven plain straw hats with bands of crape as inexpensive as possible. Susy was picking over a shining tinpan of dandelion greens for dinner. Esther, the youngest and rosiest of all, was feeding a little flock of downy chickens, and Sarah, the eldest, was absent at a neighbors helping to make the Spring outfit for half a dozen boys.

"Sarah was always so handy with the needle," said Mrs. Drix, with pardonable pride.

"But, mother," said Rosie, looking up from her work with a troubled countenance, "what are we to do?"

"Mother," said Lizzie, "our Lonsdale cousins are rich. Couldn't we go to them?"

"Certainly not," said Mrs. Drix, with a sparkle of the eyes which had not yet lost their forget-me-not blue. I wrote to them, telling them of our affliction, and they sent back a letter full of common-places, without even offering to help us."

"But they are rich and we are poor."

"Yes, and they live in splendid style, Hattie Cooley said," added Susy.

"Very likely," said Mrs. Drix. "But as long as there are seven pairs of hands in this family, and God spares us our health, I do not propose to turn genteel beggar!"

"But mother," began Rosa, who was the caretaking member of the family, "I think——"

"I've settled it all in my own mind," said Mrs. Drix, stitching away until her needles looked like a gleam of steel lightning. "The house is large, although it isn't built after the latest fashion. The air is wholesome, and there is the Black Spring, where people come to get the water for ten miles around. I intend to keep boarders."

"Hurrah for the little mother!" cried Essie, clapping her plump hands. "And I may help you to make custards and do up preserves, mayn't I, mamma?"

"Susy and Esther shall help me," declared Mrs. Drix. "Sarah can always earn her living at tailoring work. Helen shall go to the glove factory; I'm told they need new hands there. Lizzie can help Mrs. Dart, the milliner, and Rosa is to be nursery governess at Mrs. Millingham's. And if between us we can't earn a decent livelihood, it will be very strange."

Susy and Essie were delighted. Rosie naturally regarded her position as a promotion. Helen, however, dropped a tear into the pan of hot water which she had just poured out.

"The glove factory, mother?" she repeated. "But it will be a strange lonesome place. I don't think I shall like it."

"We must all try to like our duty, child," said the brisk little widow.

"Mary is going to open a boarding house," said Mr. Lonsdale again to his wife. She has requested me to insert an advertisement in the dailies for her."

"Very laudable of her I am sure," said Mrs. Lonsdale, with a yawn.

"Suppose you were to go there for a few weeks before the Saratoga season opens?" suggested Mr. Lonsdale. "You can't very well stay here while the painting and repairs are going on."

"I don't know that I could endure that sort of living," said Mrs. Lonsdale.

"Mary Drix used to be the best housekeeper I ever knew," answered her husband.

"Do you suppose she will take me cheap?"

"I should imagine so."

So Mrs. Lonsdale wrote a patronizing letter to her husband's cousin, bespeaking the best room.

But when she got to Moon Mountain there was only one little square room left. The fame of the Black Spring had gone forth in all directions, and a newspaper editor had promulgated an article praising the delicious, pine-scented air and well populated trout brooks of the mountains, and the consequence was that the farm house was full.

"But this room is too small," said Mrs. Lonsdale, fretfully, as she looked around.

"It is all I have left," said Mrs. Drix, "and I could have let it a dozen times over, if it hadn't been reserved for you, Cousin Naomi."

"You'll take me at a reduction from the usual prices, I suppose?" said Mrs. Lonsdale.

"I shall charge you just what I charge everybody else, neither more nor less," answered Mrs. Drix.

"But I am a relative," pleaded Mrs. Lonsdale.

"What good does that do me?" said the widow, fixing her blue eyes full on Mrs. Lonsdale. "My terms for a room of this size are thirty shillings a week."

"But that is too much," whined Mrs. Lonsdale.

"How much did you expect to pay?" asked Mrs. Drix, with a curious sparkle in her eyes.

"In this wilderness, here," said Mrs. Lonsdale, "twenty shillings would be——"

"If those are your ideas we never shall come to terms," said Mrs. Drix. "But if you are really cramped for money—"

"My dear Mrs. Drix," said the rich man's wife, "you have no idea of the perpetual demands made upon us for money."

"I will take you for twenty-five shillings." Mrs. Drix completed her sentence as if the other had not spoken, and the bargain was completed.

Mrs. Lonsdale had not been in the house a week before she took her husband's cousin severely to task.

"That horrid old man in the faded olive-green suit has the best room in the house," said she. "The very best."

"Yes," said Mrs. Drix, "he is my mother's uncle. He was always very good to my poor husband."

"But I am told he only pays half price?"

"That is my affair," said Mrs. Drix, quietly.

"But, is it true?" insisted Mrs. Lonsdale."

"Yes, it is true," confessed the widow. "He is very old, and can't go up and down stairs so of course he must have the first floor room."

"But he hasn't any property."

"He owns Carragee Farm, across the mountains," said Mrs. Drix, "but nobody will rent of him, because the land is so rocky, and the farm house was burned down last fall when there were so many fires in the woods. Beyond that he has nothing."

Mrs. Lonsdale curled her lip.

"Such impudence," said she. "Nobody has any right to live to be seventy years of age without having laid up some little provision for the future."

"I was thinking," said Mrs. Drix, "that perhaps Cousin Mortimer Lonsdale would contribute a little to his support, as we are equally related."

"You may be sure he will not," said Mrs. Lonsdale with emphasis.

"Very well," said Mrs. Drix calmly. "He shall never want while I can help him."

The very next week, however, old Mr. Darrow was found dead in his arm chair. And by will he had left everything he possessed to his grandniece, Mary Drix.

"I wish you joy of Carragee Farm!" chuckled Mrs. Lonsdale. "Of course, you'll have to pay taxes on it, so it will absolutely be money out of pocket."

"It was all he had to give," said Mrs. Drix.

Meanwhile the family was prospering. Sarah was engaged to marry a thrifty young farmer of the neighborhood, and Helen was earning a good living.

Lizzie was contemplating setting up a small milliner's shop on her own account, and Rosie was in high favor at Millingham place.

Even Mrs. Lonsdale admitted that her grave French cook could not excel the syllabus, creams, delicate cakes and delicious puddings which these young damsels compounded with the help of new laid eggs and country cream.

"I'm almost sorry our rooms are engaged at Saratoga," said the city lady. "I am getting rather to like Moon Mountain. And your table is decidedly good, Mary."

But just as she was packing her big trunks for the removal to the Mecca of modern fashions, Mr. Lonsdale himself came down.

"Well," said the lady airily, "what is the news, Mortimer?"

"Bad news," said Mortimer, in hoarse accents. "We are ruined! The business has gone to wreck—the cashier has fled to Belgium, and we haven't a cent to call our own."

Whereupon, naturally enough Mrs. Lonsdale went into hysterics.

When Mrs. Drix came in Naomi was wildly loading her husband with reproaches. Mortimer Lonsdale stood leaning against the mantle, with something glittering in his hand. Mrs. Drix went up to him and took it away with gentle authority.

"Give me that pistol, Mortimer," said she. "Get up, Naomi, and leave off crying and sobbing. If ever you needed to be a woman, you need it now."

"We are ruined! we are ruined!" shrieked Naomi, tearing her hair.

"I can never redeem myself," said Mortimer huskily. "You had better have let me shoot myself, Mary."

"Pshaw!" said Mrs. Drix, curtly. "Suicide is the last resort of the coward. "Don't you know, Mortimer, that it is always the darkest just before daylight."

"I don't know what you mean," said he.

"Then listen to me. The old lawyer has just come over from Carragee Farm. He says that they have struck a rich vein of iron on the rocky hills and a stock company wants to buy it of me for £5,000, and I've agreed to sell it. Uncle Darrow was as much your grandfather as he was mine. We'll divide the money, Mortimer, you and I."

"But I've no right to it, Mary," faltered he.

"Not by law, perhaps," said the widow, "but you have by equity—at all events half of it shall be yours. What do I want of £5,000? Half will be great riches for me. The girls are doing well and I like to lead a busy life. Nay, Mortimer, you must take it!"

He turned away his face.

"Mary," said he, "you have heaped coals of fire on our heads!"

So Mr. and Mrs. Lonsdale settled on a pretty farm on Moon Mountain, and, strange to relate, their only son, Geoffery, eventually married pretty Essie Drix.

"So you'll have to adopt one of Mary Drix's girls after all," jocosely said her husband.

"She's a perfect little darling," said Mrs. Lonsdale, who had softened strangely of late.

And in despite of the discouraging prophecies of the world the Widow Drix and her family had succeeded in maintaining their independence.

Not Like Other Girls.

From the Arkansaw Traveler.

"Not Like Other Girls' is the queer title of a recent novel. What a curious sort of a girl she must be, to be sure.

Dear me, just think of her getting up in the morning without being called; sending her fellow home at 10 p. m.; refusing to eat ice cream; declining to go out riding; never reading a novel or making a crazy quilt; washing the dishes without being asked; making up her own bed; allowing her poor old mother to sit down and rest a few moments; telling her brother to sew on his own buttons; coming down to breakfast without her hair being done up in curl papers; refusing to attend a dance; declining to preside at a candy booth at the church fair; reaching the age of 21 without writing poetry; accepting a proposal without looking down to her big feet and blushingly remarking: "Ask pa;" making her husband's life a perpetual heaven.

She couldn't be like other girls. Where is she? Barnum wants her. The world would pay a fortune to see her. Trot her out.

A Word for the College.

The following article appeared, last week, in the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin. It was written by Mr. Hiram Torrey who has been associated with Philadelphia journalism for many years, and is now an editorial correspondent of the REPUBLICAN. It gives us pleasure at all times to say a word in behalf of our State educational institution, and we therefore transfer this article to our columns, and specially commend it to the attention of our readers:

A DESERVING INSTITUTION.

The Pennsylvania State College.

To the Editor of the Evening Bulletin: Having recently made a trip through Centre county, this State, I think I may afford some interest to your readers and some service to the general cause of education by saying a few words in regard to the Pennsylvania State College—an institution that should be more widely known than it is, and which is entitled to a more favorable consideration than it has yet received from the people of this State.

When the national land grant was made to Pennsylvania, in like manner as it was given to other States, Congress defined the objects and purposes of such endowment; and it was supposed this State would liberally sanction the intention of the government by granting additional material aid sufficient for the establishment of an institution of learning that should be an honor and pride to the great Keystone State of the Union.

Other States, notably Massachusetts, New York, Ohio and Illinois, received with full appreciation the rich bestowments of Congress, and at once, by further endowments and zealous co-operation, proceeded to institute practical measures that have resulted in the founding of universities already of world wide reputation. The Cornell University having for its foundation the same initial government endowment as that granted to the Pennsylvania State College, stands to-day, not cramped and hampered by narrow and short sighted official action, as does our own State College, but preeminently first among the educational institutions of the United States.

Having the same grant from Congress, and the same necessity for the advantages and facilities of education, the same grand results might have been wrought out here had the Pennsylvania Legislature, or even the majority of its members, during the last twenty-four years, been capable of appreciating and fully comprehending both the opportunity and the necessity.

Notwithstanding the general indifference of the Pennsylvania people regarding matters of education, and the special apathy of the Legislature, and the personal prejudice and opposition of some of its members, yet it is, nevertheless, true that the Pennsylvania State College has made steady progress, and is surely coming to the front, and, ere long, by virtue of its broad scope and character, and its efficiency, will be enabled to maintain a high rank among the leading colleges of this country.

The location of the college is in one of the most charming valleys in the State of Pennsylvania. Set upon the broad plateau between the long ranges of the Tussey and Muncy mountains, and almost directly in front of the lofty and abrupt termination of Nittany, the position affords a landscape of varied beauty and grandeur. The building itself is of the most substantial character, and admirably arranged for the the accommodation of many hundred students. Few institutions possess so large and beautiful a campus, while the experimental farm immediately adjoining the college grounds shows the very perfection of thorough and intelligent cultivation. Recently the Agricultural Department has commenced the issue of farm bulletins, at regular intervals, giving the results of experiments, which must prove of great practical advantage to the farmers of the State. Under the reorganization many improvements have been made. Through the liberality of a gentleman in Boston (and may it serve as a hint to some of our citizens) the course in mechanic arts has lately been considerably extended, and its equipment greatly improved.

The college has never been so thoroughly organized for effective instruction as it is at the present time. It has an able President and a most competent Faculty. What it most needs now is to have its existence and its facilities for imparting education to be make known more generally to the people of this State; to have a better recognition from the Governor and the Legislature of its rights and requirements, and a more generous support from all classes of our citizens.

I have deemed it advisable to say this much in behalf of the State College, because I know there has been systematic effort made to weaken its usefulness and influence and to divert its funds into other channels; and especially for the reason that no other interest of the State of such value and magnitude has received so little encouragement and aid from the State government.

Awkward Idiot—"Your train is quite long, Miss Lucy."

Miss Lucy—"It will not be so long if you take two feet off it."

A Chat with an Astronomer.

From the Chicago Herald.

A low sized, well built elderly gentleman, with long, snow white hair, and a face not unlike Victor Hugo's, sat in a private room at the Fifth Avenue Hotel last evening and discussed science in general and astronomy in particular with a reporter. He was Monsieur Jules Cæsar Janssen, member of the French Academy and Bureau of Longtitude, Director of the Mendon Observatory, Foreign Member of the Royal Society of London and Doctor of Laws of the Universities of Dublin and Edinburg. He is commissioned by the French government to attend the Convention of Scientists, which will be held at Washington on October 1, for the purpose of discussing the best means for securing a universal meridian and a universal standard of time.

"I have no doubt that such a meridian will be found in time," said Monsieur Janssen, "but I am not so certain that Greenwich will be taken as the standard. The advantage that would result from the the carrying out of such a scheme are obvious. Personally, I have not given very much time to this question, as all my spare moments have been given to physical astronomy. Our observatory at Mendon is one of the best in the world, and has enabled me to make some interesting discoveries. The use of the spectroscope and the power to photograph sections of the sun's surface have been of great aid to me.

'Now, what news have you for me? A new comet? Oh, yes! Have you the Herald? Thanks. I know your paper will tell me all about it. No more news? Well I can tell you no more about myself, except that I have been a student since childhood, that I am now sixty years of age, that I have pursued science in Hindostan, Tahiti and other countries, and that I have flooded the world with a good many scientific works. And to what end? Well, the study of astronomy seems to many a barren field, but none of us can tell what benefits the discoveries of this age may bring to our descendants."

The principal of M. Janssen's writings are "A Memoir on the Discovery of a Method for Observing Sun Spots without an Eclipse." "A Memoir on the Discovery of the Coronal Atmosphere of the Sun." "A Memoir on the Photography of tha Sun." "A Memoir on the First Photograph of the Comet of 1881," and "A Memoir on the Intramercurial Planets and the Eclipse of the 6th of May, 1883."

A Tramp's Moment of Misery.

From the New York Sun.

A genteel looking tramp, with a fair load for Monday morning, stood on a Chatham street corner yesterday in a meditative mood. He nervously twirled a dime in his fingers and finally tossed up the coin, saying: "Heads for breakfast, tails for a cocktail!" He looked at the coin after it fell to the sidewalk and sorrowfully exclaimed: "Heads! that is for breakfast."

Flipping it again in the air he said: "Twice out of three times."

It fell tails. The tramp's thirst was neck and neck with his hunger. "I must give the breakfast a chance. So here goes third and last time," he said.

He tossed the coin again in the air, it fell in the gutter and bounded into the sewer through a hole in the rounded curbstone.

Frances E. Willard on High Living.

"I have formed a settled conviction that the world is fed too much. Pastries, cakes, hot bread, rich gravies, pickles and pepper sauces are all discarded from my 'bill of fare' and I firmly believe they will be from the recipes of the twentieth century. Entire wheat flour bread, vegetables, fruit, fish with a little meat, and milk as the chief drink, will distil in the alembic of the digestive organs, into pure, rich, feverless blood, electric but steady nerves, and brains that can 'think God's thoughts after Him,' as they have never yet been thought. This is my recipe: 'Plain living and high thinking,' and this my warning: With high living you will get exceedingly plain thinking. Yours for stomachic rights."

"Mamma, why does papa call the door mat 'ceremony?"

"What do mean, dear! Papa doesn't.

"Oh, yes, mamma, he does. When Mr. Brown was rubbing his feet on it before he came in, papa told him not to stand on ceremony, and he got off it at once."

"Well, well!" said old Mrs. Gumbo, as she laid down her morning paper. "So they've rescued poor old Greely alive! I do hope that Horace will take hold of his paper again and edit it sensibly, like he used ter."

In Paris there are 100,000 women who make their living on the street. Of these licensed by the Government there are 35,000 under 18, 7,000 under 15 and 5,000 little girls under 13 years of age.

Jones asked his wife: "Why is a husband like dough?" He expected she would give it up, and was going to tell her it was because a woman needs him, but she said because it was hard to get off her hands.

NEW MOON WISHES.

Once when the new moon glittered
So slender in the west,
I looked across my shoulder
And a wild wish stirred my breast.

Over my white right shoulder
I looked at the silver moon,
And wished a wish at even,
To come to pass in the morn

Whenever the new moon glittered
So slender and so fine,
I looked across my sholder
And wished that wish of mine!

Now when the west is rosy,
And the snow-wreathes blush below,
And I see the white light crescent
Sink downward soft and slow.

I never look over my shoulder,
As I used to look before;
For my heart is older and colder;
And now I wish no more!

All Sorts.

An editor, at a dinner table, being asked if he would take some pudding, replied, in a fit of abstraction: "Owing to a crowd of other matter we are unable to find room for it."

The Sunday papers had "by cable," or said they did, the fact that "Miss" Terry lost her pet dog the other day, and that the railroad conductor "gallantly held the train for 10 minutes until the pet was found." How in the world did we ever get through a Sunday before a cable was laid!

Children Killed by a Catamount.

MARION, N. C., Oct. 12.—Two children of Garrott Wiseman, living in Mitchell County, near the mica mines, met with a terrible death yesterday. While passing through a long strip of woods not far from the house they were attacked by a large catamount, and the younger child was instantly killed, the ferocious animal having buried his claws in the little girl's throat. The older sister attempted to escape, but was pursued by the catamount and so terribly lacerated that she was unable to speak when found. The girls were aged 8 and 6 years. When the body of the younger child was found it had been partially eaten by the animal, the face being unrecognizable.

Blaine's Tour in Michigan.

PORTLAND, Mich., Oct. 15.—Mr. Blaine left Detroit this morning for a trip through the state. At Plymouth, Stark, Howell, Towelsville and Williamstown there were large crowds at each place. Mr. Blaine spoke a few words of congratulation on the result of the election in Ohio and then introduced General Fremont. Both gentlemen were very enthusiastically received. Congressman Horr and General Alger, the republican candidate for governor, also made brief speeches at the same places where the train stopped. There was a great crowd at Lansing, and several short speeches were made.

Gov. Cleveland.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 13.—Governor Cleveland is busy to-day clearing up his work preparatory to his trip to New York and Brooklyn on Wednesday. He will probably be accompanied only by his Private Secretary, Daniel S. Lemont, leaving on the regular train, which arrives in New York at 10.30 a. m. His headquarters will be at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, where he will remain Wednesday afternoon and evening. The number of visitors at the executive chamber to-day was very large.

A Valuable Convert.

BURLINGTON, N. J., Oct. 14.—Mr. Charles Flanders, son of Alfred Flanders, who has for many years been the leading Democrat in the organization and management of his party in this city, has become a member of the Burlington Republican Club, and is heartily laboring to add to the majority that Blaine and Logan have, it is hoped, in New Jersey.

The Largest Deer Ever Killed in the Snow Shoe Region.

"Old Bill" Ream, Jack Frank, Jake Test, of Clearfield, and Andrew Stiner, of Lebanon, not one of whom is less than 60 years of age, are among the most noted deer slayers of this part of the State, and are accustomed to go into the Snow Shoe region to hunt every fall. For fifteen years past they have had their cabin at the foot of the Snow Shoe mountain, sixteen miles from the nearest settlement, and it is there at the present time. A letter to the Altoona Tribune gives an interesting account of one of the most thrilling adventures which they ever experienced:

The biggest deer ever killed in the Snow Shoe region was killed a few days ago by this party. It was a seven-pronged buck. It was first started by Stiner one season, who got one shot at it, but did not kill it. It eluded the hunter all the rest of the season. The next year Ream started it, but did not get a shot. The hunters devoted most of their time in efforts to capture the monster buck, but could not. For some reason or other they gave the buck the name of Greeley, and they never went into the woods that they did not have especial designs on him. The third season after Greeley was first seen Stiner was standing on a runway, late one afternoon in December, and suddenly he saw a huge buck come bounding along directly toward him. He had no sooner seen the deer than he recognized the seven-pronged antlers of Greeley. The runway was on Black Bear Run, ten miles from the cabin. Ream was on another runway, only a short distance from Stiner. The latter sent a rifle ball at Greeley.

The creek ran through a rocky pass at the spot, and although it was nearly forty feet wide the great buck leaped it at one bound and kept on its way. Ream, on hearing the sound of Stiner's gun, came to the latter's runway. Stiner was raging because he had not hit the deer, and, as his aim seldom was at fault, he declared to Ream that he believed the big buck was charmed. Ream made an examination of the ground and discovered blood where the deer had bounded across the creek. He said the deer might have a charmed life, but that he intended to start on its trail and see if it had, anyhow, and away he started. He had gone but a short distance when he discovered the form of the seven-prong buck lying at full length in the snow. Ream shouted to Stiner that Greeley was killed.

Stiner started for the spot, but before he reached there, and while Ream stood with one foot on the magnificent carcase admiring the trophy, the buck gave a savage lunge with its feet, and in a second was standing upon them, his eyes glaring, and the hair on its neck standing erect. Knowing the fury of a wounded buck Ream shouted to Stiner to hurry in with his gun, and the next instant he was engaged in that most dreaded of all encounters, a fight with a buck. To escape the deadly blow of its fore feet he jumped behind a small chestnut tree, but one of the feet caught him on the shoulder, tearing away the heavy hunting shirt and plowing a deep wound in the flesh.

Stiner had started without his gun, and turned to go back after it. The creek was but a few steps away, and cold as it was, Ream turned, and running toward it, leaped into the water and struck out down stream. The buck followed him, but before it had gone far a ball from Stiner's rifle crashed through its brain and put a stop to its course forever. The vitality of this monster buck was something more than the old hunter had ever seen before, for Stiner's first ball had lodged square in the deer's heart.

Stiner and his companions went out to the Black Moshanon last week. They will remain until the first of January.

He is well satisfied with the result and considers the most important duty devolving on Republicans and all other citizens just now is to vote for Mr. George Taylor.

Put a Brand on Him.

"Women are a necessary evil," he said, bringing down his fist hard on the counter to emphasize the heartless remark. It was in the village store at West Milton, Saratoga county, and the speaker was the central figure of a group of bucholic philosophers. He was homely, slovenly and sixty.

"There's where I differ from you altogether," said Mr. George T. Graham, of the same place. "Women are mostly what men make 'em. When husbands are brutes wives fall into submission or make home hot for the men; and they're unnatural in either character. Love them, and especially be good to them when they're sick, and you'll have no trouble. There's my own wife, now; she's suffered a good deal with dyspepsia, nervous prostration and other ailments that took the bloom off her cheeks and the spring out of her step. Well, she saw an advertisement of PARKER'S TONIC and thought it would be just the thing for her case. Gentlemen, I sent five miles after a bottle. She took it. I sent again after more. So several times. Trouble? Why, if you could see how much good it has done her you would say that women are the greatest of God's blessings, and PARKER'S TONIC is the next."

This preparation, which has been known as PARKER'S GINGER TONIC, will hereafter be called simply PARKER'S TONIC. This change has been rendered necessary by substitutes imposed upon their customers by unprincipled dealers under the name of ginger; and as ginger is really an unimportant flavoring ingredient, we drop the misleading word.

There is no change, however, in the preparation itself, and all the bottles remaining in the hands of dealers, wrapped under the name of PARKER'S GINGER TONIC, contain the genuine medicine if the fac simile signature of HISCOX & Co. is at the bottom of the outside wrapper. 16 49 4t

R. Hall, Grayville, Ill., says: "Cured an afflicted throat for me in twenty-four hours." "Sat up in bed and coughed till the clothing was wet with perspiration. My wife finished what I use Thomas' Eclectric Oil. The first teaspoonful relieved me." E. H. Perkins, Cinch Centre, N. Y., Thomas' Eclectric Oil is also a Tiger for external application for rheumatism, cuts, scalds, burns, bruises, etc. When visiting the druggist, ask him what he knows of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil; if he has been long in the drug trade, be sure he will speak highly of it.

Blaine in Michigan.

EAST SAGINAW, Mich., Oct. 17.—It was about 10 o'clock this morning when Mr. Blaine's special train started from Saginaw for Bay City. Elaborate preparation had been made for his reception. He and General Fremont were escorted through the city to a stand in the park, around which were assembled fully 15,000 people. After a short speech by Senator Palmer, Mr. Blaine was introduced. He spoke very briefly, and then introduced General Fremont. Both were received very enthusiastically, and when Senator Palmer spoke of the importance of the tariff to the people engaged in the salt works and in laboring he was loudly applauded. There was a large procession, which Mr. Blaine was expected to review, but the time did not permit.

FLINT, Mich., Oct. 17.—Blaine was tendered the best arranged reception here so far on his trip through Michigan. He took occasion to reply to inquiries as to whether he had been a member of the Know-nothing party, and had supported Fillmore when he ran in 1856 as the native American candidate for the presidency. He said that he never was a member of the Know-nothing order; never voted for a man who was nominated by it; and that, instead of supporting Fillmore in 1856, had the honor to be a member of the national republican convention, which nominated General Fremont, and was an ardent supporter of him.

Railroad Accident in Harrisburg

HARRISBURG, Oct. 16.—A horrible accident occurred this morning in front of the Cumberland Valley depot, in this city, in which Miss Lizzie Wallace, of Newville, Cumberland county, lost her life and Harry Foster, of Brideport, same county, had his legs so terribly crushed that they will have to be amputated. Miss Wallace came to the city yesterday as a delegate to the Woman's State Temperance convention, now holding its session in this city, and this morning went to the depot to meet several friends from up the valley, whom she expected to arrive on the 9.10 train. She sat in the ladies' waiting room chatting pleasantly with the usher until the train arrived, and when it steamed into the depot she started toward it. She had to cross the track in order to reach the side of the train, and as she did so she failed to notice a draft of cars which were being shifted down the track toward her. Several persons standing near observed the lady's danger, among them Harry Foster, the well known checkman in the lower baggage room of the Pennsylvania railroad, who attempted to save her and by so doing lost both his limbs.

Boiler Explosion.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 19.—A special to the Post from Sisterville, W. Va. says: Intelligence had been received, here from Middleburg, Tyler county, to effect that the boiler of Isaac Wehrman's saw mill on the Ten-Mile creek exploded yesterday morning and the mill and machinery were totally destroyed. John Fox and William Worden were killed instantly and five other men wounded, two of them fatally. The cause of the accident is not known as the engineer was one of the men killed. The dead and wounded are horribly burned and mangled.

Only one Applicant.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 17.—The smallest list of applications ever before the pardon board will be presented next Tuesday. There is only one new case, that of William Murray, of Luzerne county, sentenced to six months imprisonment for an election fraud.

Mrs. Wittenmeyer Speaks.

Special Despatch to the Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Mrs. Wittenmeyer, well known during the war as an active worker in hospitals of the United States, and for some years president of the National Christian Temperance Union, has written the following letter:

"SUSQUEHANNA, PA., Oct. 2, 1884.

"To Joseph D. Weeks, Pittsburg, Penn. Dear Friend: Yours from New York was not received till this evening. In reply I have to say: First, I am as loyal to this Government as I was during the war, and do not think that we are yet ready or can safely turn over the interests of the country to those who brought on the war, or who sympathized with the Rebellion.

"Second, I should regard it as a great social and national calamity if a man like Mr. Cleveland should be elevated to the highest office in the gift of the people. I believe the Democratic party will and ought to carry a burden of disgrace for years because of his candidacy, and that it is the duty of every decent man to do all in his power to defeat him.

"Third, I believe in the prohibition of the liquor traffic, but I don't think that the question can be handled as a national question. To run a presidential candidate and try to secure an amendment to the national Constitution is like trying to put a roof on a house before the foundation is laid or the walls are up.

Fourth, I am satisfied that the party managers are now working to build up a party, and are more concerned for that than for principles, and that if the Republican party had passed a sensible temperance resolution and nominated St. John, the Prohibition party managers would not have been satisfied.

Yesterday, Dr. Olin, a staunch temperance man, the presiding elder of Birmingham district, who made last winter in the New York Legislature the best record any temperance man has ever made there and who was last year renominated by the Prohibition party and indorsed and supported by the Republicans and who had been renominated by the Republicans unanimously, was defeated in the Prohibition convention because the Republicans had nominated him, and a second-rate man nominated, who thanked the convention for the honor and said that, of course, he could not be elected, but he was willing to be sacrificed for the good of the cause.

I believe that most of the votes cast for St. John will be given to Cleveland, and that the Prohibition party is in fact, if not in plan, Democratic. I am not running on that line, but am against the movement.

Your for the right,
(Signed) ANNIE WITTENMEYER.

The Vote in Ohio.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 18.—The official vote counted by the county clerks from sixty counties and semi-official from the other twenty-eight counties give Robinson, for secretary of state, 11,321, and Flickinger, for board of public works, 17,476. The semi-official returns do not report on the other republican candidates, but with sixty counties the plurality for Johnson, for supreme judge, is estimated at between 15,000 and 16,000. The total vote or majorities by congressional districts cannot be given, but the vote by counties on congressmen shows 58,544 republican majorities and 40,126 democratic. The net republican majority on the congressional vote is 18,418.

The prohibition vote last year was 8,362. This year it is 9,510. The greenback vote last year was 2,937. This year, 3,700, showing no coalition, but that party lines were closely followed. The total prohibition and greenback vote is 12,447, or 1,126 more than Robinson's plurality The rest of the republican state ticket has an average majority over all of over 5,000. The total vote is 780,373. Last year it was 718,168. In October, 1880, it was 716,186, and in November, 1880, 724,957. There is no change in congressmen, except an increase of 150 in Romier's majority over Hurd.

State Board of Agriculture.

BEDFORD, Oct. 16.—The State Board of Agriculture held its final sessions here to-day. The sessions were occupied in the reading of essays upon agricultural subjects and discussion by members of the Board. This evening Dr. H. Leffman lectured on microscopic life as a cause of disease in animals and plants, and Hon. J. Simpson Africa delivered an address upon the settlement of the Southern border counties by the Scotch Irish. The sessions of the Board were very interesting and attracted a large number of auditors.

Penn Bank Packages Burned.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 17.—In the Penn bank investigation to-day, Silas Reed, a colored employe of the Duquesne club, testified that on the day the bank closed for a second time, President Riddle gave him two packages and instructed him to burn them. One of the packages was too large to go into the stove, and when witness opened it he noticed a book marked "Penn Bank." President Riddle gave witness five dollars for destroying the packages.

Mr. Blaine Continues his Tour.

MUSKEGON, Mich., Oct. 16.—Mr. Blaine continued his tour through Michigan to-day. Leaving Grand Rapids about 9 o'clock there was the usual demonstration at the depot as the train started. General Fremont was called out and loudly cheered. The places on the route this morning were small, but the crowds were loud and enthusiastic.

Fires in New Jersey.

ATLANTIC CITY, Oct. 16.—Extensive forest fires have prevailed between May's Landing and Hammonton for several days past, doing much damage. Last night the fire swept over the immense cranberry bog of the Atlantic Cranberry Company, near Elwood, covering 275 acres, destroying the entire crop, valued at $10,000. It is feared that the roots of the plants have also been destroyed, which will make the loss much greater. This company had just declared a dividend of $1 per share, payable on November 1, in anticipation of large receipts from the sale of the berries. In consequence of the fire notice of the dividend has been recalled.

Buried by Falling Walls.

NORRISTOWN, October 17.—While Augustus Shultheiser, contractor, and Frank Bry, John Schraeder and Jas. Conaway were engaged at Slemmer's Oil Works in erecting a scaffold, the upper half of a neighboring stone wall, fifteen feet high, twenty-five feet long and eighteen inches thick, which had just been undergoing completion by the masons, fell over and buried beneath the debris these four workmen. They were rescued with all despatch. All were seriously injured internally. The injuries of Conaway, however, may prove fatal.

A Canadian Community Terrorized.

TORONTO, Oct. 17.—Michipicoten, on the north shore of Lake Superior, is reported to be in possession of a gang of roughs and whisky-sellers. Respectable people of the place have received notice to quit the town. On Friday night last the Canadian Pacific railway office was riddled with bullets by a band of masked men. John MacKenzie, an employe, was shot in the hand. Captain Burden was fired at in bed a few nights ago, the ball passing within a few inches of his head.

Mormon Invasion of Oregon.

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 15.—About sixty Mormon families direct from Salt Lake, recently settled in Baker County and propose to found a colony The old settlers are very indignant. The public feeling is so intense that serious trouble is feared. Baker County settlers claim there is danger of being overrun by Mormons, who are striving to gain a foothold and assume control of affairs. Citizens express a determination to resist the gradual encroachments of these people.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS

—Mrs. J. Ellen Foster, the celebrated temperance lecturer of Iowa, addressed an audience in the M. E church at Philipsburg on Wednesday evening. We believe that if it had been known that she was to lecture Bellefonters would have been represented in the audience as the lecture delivered by her in this place is considered about the finest our citizens ever heard from any source or on any topic.

—Mr. and Mrs. F. X. Lehman are mourning the death of Mrs. L's father, Mr. Wendelin Werstein. The sad event occurred on Friday morning at 8 o'clock. He was 68 years old. Dropsy was the disease which terminated his life. The funeral took place Monday morning at 9 o'clock from the Catholic church. We sympathise with Mr. and Mrs. Lehman in their affliction.

—The Presbyterian congregation were without a pastor on Sunday and they wandered into strange although we hope not forbidden pastures.

A Horrible Death.

A man working on the viaduct on the B. C., C. & S. W. R. R., this side of Peale, one day last week fell off and received injuries that resulted in his death about eight hours after the accident happened. The height o this immense structure is 95 feet, and in falling the unfortunate man struck a heavy plank 30 feet from the top, breaking it in two as though it had been the thinnest kind of a lath. Twenty feet farther down he encountered another plank with the same result as the first and fell the remaining 45 feet an insensible mass of broken bones. He was terribly mashed up, and presented a horrible appearance. We failed to learn anything pertaining to the man further than that he was from the State of New York, to which place the body was taken.—Philipsburg Journal.

To the Voters of the Twentieth Pennsylvania Congressional District.

Yielding to the request of many members of the National Greenback Labor party, I offer myself as a candidate for congress in the Twentieth district. My platform is:

Increase the tariff until we do not import anything we can make;

Pay out the treasury surplus on the overdue bonds;

Repeal the rebate provision in the duty on bituminous coal;

Prevent the importation of contract or pauper labor;

Restore the American merchant marine, and thereby save over $100,000,000 now paid to foreigners for the ocean carrying trade;

Governmental assistance to build up the beet sugar industry and thus save $100,000,000 now paid to foreigners for sugar;

Take the tax off the laboring man's tobacco;

Put all honorably discharged soldiers on the pension roll at equitable rates,

And by these measures restore business and labor to prosperous conditions. These measures will set every idle man, every idle mine, and every idle manufactory in the United States at work at profitable wages and prices. Those who believe in these principles are asked to vote for me.

THEODORE P. RYNDER.

Milesburg, Oct. 2, 1884.

When we Will Hear from Him.

The Honorable Frank Hurd, the champion free trader of Ohio, who has just been beaten for Congress by a Protectionist, states that he cannot at the moment determine whether he will contest the election or not.

As soon as Mr. Hurd ascertains whether the next Congress will be sufficiently Democratic to vote him in, whether legally elected or not, we will hear from Mr. Hurd on the subject.

Catarrh

Is a very prevalent and exceedingly disagreeable disease, liable, if neglected, to develop into serious consumption. Being a constitutional disease, it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, acting through the blood, reaches every part of the system, effecting a radical and permanent cure of catarrh in even its most severe forms. CURTIN FOR CONGRESS.

From the Philadelphia Press.

The roving Democratic Conference of the Twentieth Congressional District has been abruptly dissolved by a division into sections, and each naming a candidate. The conferees of Centre and Clearfield counties, representing one-third of the Conference, and very much the larger Democratic vote of the district, becoming tired of the fruitless and silly dilly-dallying, separated from their associates and promptly named their man. Ex-Governor Curtin, with equal alacrity, accepted the nomination and at once entered the field as a candidate.

The remainder of the conferees' driven by this act to a hasty conclusion, named Mr. James K. P. Hall, of Elk county, as their candidate. The Republican conferees met upon the same day and adjourned without making a nomination, but with the evident intention of supporting the election of Curtin.

The Democratic action in persistently delaying the nomination was instigated by a determination and power to remove a worthy representative in order to make room for the aspirations of others less capable. Although possessing the power, they feared to use it, and have now named an obscure man who has no greater merit to recommend him than that he is a brother of Senator Hall. The Press, anticipating this situation, heretofore intimated the present Republican attitude in that district. If there were any reasonable hope of electing a party candidate in full sympathy with the Blaine administration as well as sound upon economic questions, that would be done. But in the absence of such probability the Republicans have taken the wise course.

Ex-Governor Curtin is not a Democrat in any modern acceptation of that term, nor can he be claimed as the property of any party or district. He is an able man, of large experience, extended reputation, broad and liberal views, and thoroughly sound upon all questions pertaining to national issues in which this state is interested in an especial manner. Mere questions of party politics sink into insignificance in this situation. It is simply a question of sending to Congress the best representative, and in this view there can be no difference of opinion as between the men presented in the Twentieth District. Mr. Curtin should have been promptly nominated without the slightest hesitation. The Democratic managers failing in this duty, the people of the district, irrespective of party lines, should join in condemning this covetous policy by the triumphant election of the War Governor. And this they will do.

The Centre County "Mugwump."

MR. EDITOR: While as a rule it may be said that the Democratic party, true to its traditions, will vote for any thing that may be upon the ticket, it is safe to predict that it will not do so this year in several instances, and particularly in the case of the nominees for members of the Legislature.

The writer has nothing to say either for or against Mr. Woodward, as he may or may not be a fit person to represent the people of Centre county in the Legislature of this State. We simply desire to ask why Leonard Rhone, who of all the candidates for the nomination, most completely forgets what the people demand and expect of public officials, should be elected to the office to which he aspires.

The time was, when Mr. Rhone in some measure merited the respect of the public generally, but it was in the dim past.

For the sake of an office whereby he can gratify his egotism, he stoops to the most contemptible actions and entirely forgets what should actuate a man of firm principles, and uncompromising fidelity to those principles.

In reply to a communication relative to the enactment of a law restraining cattle from running at large, Mr. Rhone in a letter of recent date declares that he would oppose all measures of that character. In this his declarations are entirely at variance with his actions, and expressed views in the past.

About eight years ago it was well known that he was in active sympathy with a movement in Potter township to have such a law passed. In this movement he was associated with a number of other gentlemen, and it was a brother-in-law of Mr. Rhone who circulated a petition to secure signatures. Our "mugwump" statesman simply begs the whole question in his letter.

In this age of intelligence when voters think for themselves candidates are estimated by their actions and conduct in the past and not by what they promise to do.

In his letter this pseudo Democrat makes a bid for the votes of the workingmen, but let us ask whether this sudden solicitude for the poor laboring men is not prompted by his narrow and selfish desire to hold office. At a time when he did not want office at the hands of the people he cared nothing for the poor man, and would gladly have given his sanction to the passage of a law to prohibit a poor devil's cow from grazing on the public roads, so that it would not be necessary for rich and prosperous men like Rhone to make fences. No poor man is happier today because of the generosity or kindness of Mr. Rhone, and nothing prevents him now from avowing his true attitude on this fence question except the fear of overwhelming defeat. Shall party allegiance impel honest and hard working laborers to vote for a man who has no sympathy for them? We hope they will answer at the polls.

Again, to illustrate the nature of our "mugwump" hero, mark his effort to convince the people that he has long been a "Simon-pure Democrat." His idiotic vaporings in this effort are humiliating in the extreme. How fearlessly he opposed the election of the regular Republican candidate two years ago, and how seemingly creditable was his avowal then made that he had voted for Mr. Stewart, as it can be shown by a number of creditable witnesses, that he so stated. If the truth were known, this is the first year Mr. Rhone has been a Democrat, and he is now a Democrat for the sole purpose of gratifying his selfish desire to hold office.

Other men who have been Democrats all their lives, and have been active in the work must stand aside for this pretender who of all his competitors had the least claim or right to expect a nomination.

He is lacking in the essentials which go to make up a statesman. Let the people vote for a man who will be a representative of the people and who will care for their interests.

—Theodore P. Rynder expects Centre county to give him 1,000 votes for Congress and he will receive at least that many.

THE WONDER

Is becoming universal as to how such an immense sale could be created in Lowell for HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA. But, my friend, if you could stand behind our counter a week and hear what those say who are using it, the reason would appear as clear as the noon-day sun. The real curative power of HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA demonstrates itself in every case where our directions are faithfully regarded. We would that we might get before the people a fractional part of the confidence that is expressed to us every day in this medicine by those who have carefully noted (without prejudice) its effects upon the blood and through that upon the whole system, stimulating all the functions of the body to perform the duties nature requires of them. Try a bottle and satisfy yourself.

Cold Hands and Feet.

LOWELL, Feb. 3, 1879.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & Co.: Gentlemen—About one year ago my daughter commenced taking your Sarsaparilla. At that time she had very little appetite; could take no long walks, and her face was badly broken out with a humor. She was low-spirited; troubled with cold hands and feet; her blood seemed to be poor, and she was in a condition which caused us great anxiety. After taking one bottle of your Sarsaparilla she began to improve; and she now has a good appetite and can take much longer walks. Her humor is nothing compared with what it was one year ago. She is in better spirits, is not troubled with cold hands and feet as previously. And I attribute this improvement in her condition largely to your Sarsaparilla. She has taken six bottles, and intends to continue its use. I was inclined to oppose the trial of it at first. I now have great faith in it as a blood purifier. Very truly yours,

SPICES.—The best cook in the land cannot cook successfully without pure, fresh spices. These we have in every variety. Well-seasoned food adds to long life and happiness.

SUGARS AND SYRUPS.—In Sugars and Syrups we have all the best brands in the market. Much of the sugar now sold is adulterated, and in an article of this kind there is great waste. We buy from reliable dealers, and handle only the genuine goods.

TEAS AND COFFEES.—No breakfast can be thoroughly enjoyed without a good cup of coffee or tea. A drink of this kind is stimulating and goes right to the spot. Our Coffees and Teas are fresh and strictly pure. The fragrant odor which escapes from the steaming pot as it comes in from the kitchen will convince you of this. We sell more coffee than any other two houses in the county. Why? Because we sell the best and the people know it.

NUTS, CONFECTIONERY, ETC.—In Nuts and Confectionery we have everything that is nice, and just what will please the young folks, and old folks as well. Our candies are all pure and wholesome; We do not handle the highly-colored, poisonous mixtures that ruin and decay the teeth. We have new Florida oranges (this fall's crop), fine Figs and Prunes, and a choice line of Canned Fruits and Preserves. Bear this in mind when preparing to Celebrate the merry holidays.

—o—

We make special mention of the above lines of goods because they are all leading articles at this season of the year. In other lines our stock is equally fresh and complete.

We buy the Best Goods and sell at the Lowest Figures.

LATEST TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

Elections in Two States.

The election returns received this morning say that the Republicans now claim Ohio by a majority of over 20,000. Every fresh dispatch increases these figures. Nothing has been received from West Virginia to-day. The following dispatches were received last night:

CINCINNATI, Oct. 14.—Polls closed at 6 o'clock with no further outbreaks, to the great relief of everybody. There was a very general apprehension that trouble would occur as the polls were about to close, and men were sent to the most dangerous precincts to prevent violence. Fortunately the day closed quietly. The worst trouble of the day happened in one of the precincts of the Eighth ward where a number of colored deputy marshals came in collision with deputy sheriffs and bystanders, and as the latter were largely anti-republican the colored men were quickly routed, but not till a number of shots were fired. A cry of "Lynch the negroes" was raised and the crowd rushed into the next street. One was caught and beaten nearly to death. Another was struck in the face with a boulder and his face masbed. He had not been about the polls, but was passing along the street In this disturbance one man was fatally shot and a woman was struck in the breast with a boulder and is supposed to be mortally hurt. During the whole afternoon at this precinct a large crowd remained and a number of minor disturbances occurred.

The republicans claim the election of their entire ticket in Hamilton county. Returns show that the Germans voted largely with the republicans in Hamilton county.

11 p. m.—Seventy-one wards and precincts show a net democratic gain of 884 over the vote of secretary of state in 1880. The same wards and precincts show a net republican gain of 7,317 over the vote for governor in 1883. A. C. Thompson, republican, Twelfth district, elected. His majority in Lawrence, his own county, is very large, showing a republican gain of about 600.

COLUMBUS, 11 p. m.—Butterworth, of Cincinnati, telegraphs that he is elected in the First district; also that General Brown is elected in the Second district, making a republican gain of two congressmen.

11.30 p. m.—If the present ratio of gain holds in wards and precincts of the state not yet heard from, the republican plurality in the state will be 17,964.

Hon. William McKinley, Jr., candidate for congress in the Twentieth district, telegraphs as follows: "Returns are unofficial, but such as we have give me not less than 1,000 majority." McKinley was unseated by the present congress and his election is a republican gain.

TOLEDO, 11 p. m.—So far as heard from the republican state ticket has made large gains throughout this congressional district and especially in this city. At present the indications point to the election of Romies over Hurd for congress by a small majority.

PORTSMOUTH, O., Oct. 14.—Thompson, republican, for congress is elected by 1,000 majority.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 15.—Unofficial republican returns have been received from all except five counties in the state. The five counties not heard from are Carroll, Geauga, Lorain, Medina and Trumbull. In 1883 these gave republican majorities aggregating 7,072. The returns received show a republican plurality of 3,607, which added to the 1883 plurality of the five counties not heard from, gives a net republican plurality of 10,679. It is thought the five counties will increase the plurality to about 12,000. In the above figures Cuyahoga county is placed at 2,556 and Hamilton county at 2,258 republican majority.

Ten republican congressmen have been elected and ten democrats with one district, the Eleventh, still in doubt.

TOLEDO, Oct. 15.—It is generally considered that Romies, the republican candidate for congress in the Tenth district, is elected over Hurd by from 200 to 300 majority.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 16, 2 p. m.—The unofficial count of the vote in this State, with five counties to hear from gives the Republicans 12,000 majority.

WEST VIRGINIA.

WHEELING, Oct. 14.—Returns from thirteen wards and precincts show a net republican gain of 103. Returns came in very slowly. There has been much scratching.

WHEELING, Oct. 15.—Returns are still very scarce and unsatisfactory. Chairman Cowder, of the state republican committee, concedes the state to the democrats by three thousand. He says the returns are coming in so slowly that he can hardly form an approximate idea of the real status in the state. J. T. Miller, democratic state committeeman in this city, claims the state by 6,500. Chairman Leonard telegraphs from Parkersburg that the state has given 10,000. Baker, national democratic committeeman, places it at from 3,000 to 5,000.

Poisoned from a Spring.

COSHOCTON, O., Oct. 15.—As a consequence of drinking spring water that had been poisoned, J. Gauner, and family, of Linton township, now lie at the point of death.

The Christie Well a Wonder.

BRADFORD, Oct. 13.—Christie well, in Butler County, which is situated near the great Phillips gusher, commenced producing yesterday at the rate of 1200 barrels per day. Mr. Christie, its owner, insisted that the well had not been drilled into the regular sand formation and caused drilling to be resumed, with most extraordinary results. At 5 o'clock this evening the well was doing over 200 barrels an hour, or, at the rate of nearly 5000 barrels per day. It is reported this evening that the well is now producing at the rate of 6000 barrels a day. This establishes its record as the largest producing well ever known. Drilling was stopped this evening at 5 o'clock for want of tankage but will resume in the morning. Feeling in oil circles to-night is very panicky, and curbstone sales are already reported at sixty-seven cents, two cents below the closing quotations, with prospects of a much heavier break to-morrow.

Out of Jail Again.

CORRY, Oct. 13.—Two months ago Wilber Merritt, an athlete and the champion wrestler of Erie County, was arrested for highway robbery near Elgin, this county. He lay in ambush, and, as Mary Catterel was driving past, he sprang into the road, caught the horse by the bit, cut the harness from him and rode away. Through a technicality the prisoner was released from jail. Subsequently a requisition was obtained to rearrest and bring him from New York state. After a long search and a desperate struggle Merritt was arrested and lodged in jail here Sunday morning. Last night he outwitted the turnkey and made his escape.

Robbing a Prince.

LONG ISLAND CITY, Oct. 13.—The Queens county grand jury presented several indictments in court this evening, among them being one against John Miller, of Glen Cove, for assaulting and robbing Prince Masaguki Kataroka, of Japan, in Glen Cove harbor on August 19. Kataroka hired Miller to row him from Glen Cove to the school ship anchored in the bay, upon which he is a student, and Miller, after rowing some distance, presented a revolver at the Prince, demanded his gold watch and money, amounting to $257. Miller then rowed to the shore and, jumped out, taking the oars with him, pushed the boat off, leaving the Japanese helpless.

Eloping with the Hired Man.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Oct. 13.—It has now been learned that Nannie Keith, the 15-year-old daughter of Adam Keith, the wealthy farmer residing in Berritt township, in this county, has eloped with her father's hired man, Fred Whitney. He left Winnebago on Thursday with a pair of horses for the west. He went to Freeport, where he sold the team and took the train for Chicago. The girl got on the cars at Winnebago and they went to Chicago together, where they are now stopping. Before the girl left she purchased a large quantity of goods and had them charged to her father. The matter has created great excitement on account of the prominence of the girl's father.

Wedding Bells at Bethlehem.

BETHLEHEM, Oct. 14.—At high noon to-day the wedding of Miss Mary L. Drake and Mr. Harry O. Emory, of Cheltenham Montgomery County, took place in Trinity Episcopal Church, the rector, Rev. George Pomeroy Allen, officiating. The bride is the daughter of the late Colonel G. L. Blake, the discoverer of petroleum in this county. The wedding was a very fashionable and brilliant one. The reception took place in the Eagle Hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Emory, after a tour in the South, will reside in Philadelphia.

The Situation in the Hocking Valley.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 13.—There is no change in the situation in the Hocking Valley to-day. The mine at Sand Run, which was burning, has been banked and closed with the hope of smothering the fire. At Stroudsville the mines are still burning. Fire engines from Logan, Lancaster and Columbus which had been sent for commenced operations this morning, and are expected to have some effect on the fire before night. There are no demonstrations among the miners who claim that the operators set fire to the mines.

Riot in Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 14, 2 p.m.—Riots are in progress in this city. Roughs are assaulting the Custom House and jail and attempting to release the prisoners.

In the 6th ward a Deputy U. S. Marshal was shot at, and it is believed a bloody riot has commenced. A patrol wagon just passed in which was a colored man whose head was mashed to a jelly. There is great excitement and business is suspended.

Railroad Collision—Two Men Killed.

CAMDEN, Oct. 13.—A collision occurred here between two Pennsylvania trains this morning. Joseph Carman, the engineer of one of the trains, was killed, and the fireman of the other train was fatally injured, having both legs cut off. Several passengers were hurt. Both engines were smashed.

Remaining Till the Last Day.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 13.—Mr. Blaine left Lancaster at a little after 9 o'clock for Toledo, via Columbus.

Just as he started the train going down the Hocking Valley, carrying Mr. Hendricks, the Democratic candidate for Vice President, arrived at Lancaster.

Another Monumental Shaft at Gettysburg.

GETTYSBURG, Oct. 15.—The monumental shaft erected by the Second Cavalry division and Custer's Brigade of the Third Division, to mark the field of the Cavalry engagement between the Union Confederate Cavalry on July 3d, 1863, was dedicated today. The reunions of the Third and Sixteenth Pennsylvania Cavalry Regiments were also held. A large representation of the two divisions above mentioned were present, together with an excursion from the Cumberland Valley and Grand Army Posts from Carlisle and Mechanicsburg. General McIntosh presented the shaft to the Gettysburg Battle Field Memorial Association, and it was received by David A. Buehler, Esq. General Gregg opened the ceremonies with a brief address. This evening a camp fire was held and addresses were made by the participants in the battle and others. The visitors left to-night on special trains.

Persistent Attempts to Wreck a Train.

TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 14.—A second attempt to wreck the Santa Fe express train was made a short distance east of Florence, Kansas, on Sunday evening. A section of men of that division went to Florence during the day and returned on a hand car to their home. About 9.30 o'clock they discovered a tie across the track fastened down and succeeded in removing it before the arrival of the east-bound express, due there at 9.45 o'clock. On the Sunday night previous an obstruction was placed for a passenger train near Emporia, which resulted in the wrecking of a freight train and the killing of a fireman. It is believed that this was done by the same gang and that robbery was their object. A reward of $1,500 is offered for the arrest of the perpetrators.

The Methodist Centennial at Troy.

TROY, Oct. 14.—At the Methodist centennial this afternoon Rev. William Griffin, D. D., of West Troy, presented as a topic for discussion the "Three Methodist Centennials" and Rev. W. A. Fitch, of Old Chatham, followed with the second topic, "The Inspiration of To-day." During the evening addresses were made by Rev. C. R. Hawley on "Missions;" by Rev. J. W. Thompson on "Church Extension;" by Rev. S. M. Williams, of Troy, on "Freedmen;" by Rev. S. George Skene, of Pittsfield, on "Education," and by Rev. Dr R. H. Robinson, of West Troy, on 'Our Superannuates."

Destruction of a Town.

LYNCHBURG, Va., Oct. 12.—The town of Liberty, twenty-five miles west of this point, suffered partial destruction by an incendiary fire today. Twenty-one business houses were consumed. There was no fire apparatus at hand and the flames were not arrested until the arrival of assistance from this city, which was forwarded by a special train. The loss is estimated to be over $150,000.

Transfer of Real Estate.

WEST CHESTER, Oct. 12.—In the way of real estate transaction in this county a novel transfer of property has just taken place, in which James O'Neil and wife sold to the said James O'Neil a property in Downingtown. There is no like sale recorded upon the dockets of this county and there are some inquiries being made in legal circles as to its legality.

Fatal Railway Accident—Fire.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Oct. 12.—By an accident to a Louisville and Nashville train at Henderson, Kentucky, yesterday, Henry Epmeier and Louis Hoag, brakemen, were probably fatally injured.

A bonded warehouse at Uniontown, Ky., was burned yesterday. It contained 2,000 barrels of three-year-old whisky. Loss, $175,000.

Time to Stop It.

It's too bad, Sir or Madam, but don't get frightened. Your hair is falling off—that's certain. A glance in the mirror, or an investigating committee of fingers tell the dismal story. We won't discuss the possible cause. It is enough to know that Parker's Hair Balsam used now will prevent further destruction. Is your hair somewhat gray, too, and crisp? Alas, yes. The Balsam will give back the original color, softness and gloss. Not a dye, not oily elegantly perfumed, a perfect dressing

THE AUTUMN POET.

When'er the poet writes a line
Whose final word is sober,
The dullest reader may divine
He sings about October.

Oh, wherefore will he never find
A new rhyme for October?
Why won't he call the chilly wind
The sycamore's disrober?

Why won't he call each squirrel gray
The chestnut's nimble proper,
When'er he sings the simple lay
Of russet-shod October?

He e'en might call the lily dead,
The bumble bee's englober,
When singing of the gold and red
That glorifies October.

Before I'd use that hackneyed rhyme,
I'd sing about a crowbar,
And just for once be unsublime,
And call the month Octobar.

A New Departure.

One good result of the hard times a few years ago, was the bringing into life an article in proprietary medicine, which gave to every purchaser a full equivalent for his money. The rule of this class of medicines is from 10 to 25 doses for $1. the best only reaching 40. Messrs. Hood & Co. took a new departure and in the article now so well and favorably known as Hood's Sarsaparilla, they gave the unprecedented quantity of 100 doses for $1. These facts commend this remedy to the consideration of the sick, also the well, for they are liable to be sick.

The Democratic Congressional Bolt —Ex-Gov. Curtin the Nominee of Two Counties—The Remaining Four Left out in the Cold, and they Nominate J. K. Hall, of Elk County.

The somewhat famous Democratic Congressional Conference of the 20th district, which has been meeting about twice each week in all parts of the Commonwealth during the lovely fall months which are now half gone, settled down in the sacred precincts of the hall of justice in this borough on Tuesday, the 14th. They are a dozen and a half of more than ordinarily nice looking gentlemen, and as their mission was to settle the destinies of the Congressional representative of a half dozen very respectable counties their actions were closely watched and criticised—the criticisms reflecting upon them somewhat adversely. More than that, their deliberations were fraught with consequences of importance to a gentleman who has posed before the people of this nation in a variety of attitudes for twenty-five years or more and whose name is a household word from the raging Atlantic to the more Pacific waters of the West.

Therefore, when on Tuesday these gentlemen resumed the monotonous task of opposing the expressed will of the Democratic voters of the district, a court room full of citizens took advantage of open doors to enter and watch proceedings. They continued to ballot until the 162d was reached at 4:30 o'clock, when, on motion, the conference adjourned until 6:30 o'clock. "At that time," said the concluding speaker; "we are warranted to believe from the spirit manifested in this conference during the past two weeks, that within a half hour after meeting a nomination will be made. Then it will only remain for us to ratify the nomination and rejoice at the news of a Democratic victory in Ohio."

How rudely are the hopes of sanguine Democratic politicians blasted in presidential years! Before the court house was emptied Statesman James Cornelly proposed three cheers for Mr. Curtin which were given with a will. Howard Spangler advocated the extreme measure of locking the Court House doors and permitting the spectators to nominate a candidate, but the proposal was not carried into execution.

At 6:30 o'clock the conference resumed its sessions and the Court House was packed with spectators. Immediately after assembling the conferees from Centre and Clearfield bolted, declaring that Curtin was the nominee of their counties which give by far the largest Democratic majorities.

Then followed a ratification. Speeches for and against the favorite nominee were attempted, but every word in opposition to him was mercilessly hissed by the audience Among those who were called on for speeches were Mr. James Milliken, Col. D. H. Hastings and J. L. Spangler, Esq.

A committee consisting of Dr. T. R. Hayes, Mr. L. T. Munson and another gentleman was appointed to wait upon Governor Curtin, asking him to address the conference. He soon entered the room and made one of his customary eloquent speeches.

The Republican Congressional conference being in session at the time, adjourned sine die without making a nomination.

The conferees of the four remaining counties adjourned until 8 o'clock next morning, their intention being to confer, by telegraph, with their principals at home and allow their movements to-day to be governed by the advice they receive.

Strange as it may seem that the nomination of such an able, honorable and honored representative was not made by the conference, the real animus of it is as obvious as daylight. The fiat forbidding the renomination of A. G. Curtin went forth from Washington last winter. The Carlisle-Morrison-Watterson-Hurd element of the Democratic party are its rulers and they dare to bring their influence to bear in the heart of the Keystone State. The pet measure of these statesmen was defeated in Congress last winter and Congressmen Randall and Curtin had something to do with that defeat. Immediately, the word was given that these Congressmen must not return. Randall has thus far beaten them in every contest, and Curtin's power remains to be tested. But "free trade" has become the watch word of the Democratic party, and the sooner all who are opposed to it retire from the ranks, the better it will be for them.

The conferees of Elk, Mifflin, Clinton and Union counties met Wed morning in the Court House and nominated Hon. J. K. P. Hall, of Elk county. Hon. Andy Reed, of Mifflin county, received one vote, but the nomination of Mr. Hall was afterwards made unanimous.

Corporal's Budget.

STORMSTOWN, PA., Oct. 10, 1884.

EDITOR NEWS: Master Gray Mattern, son of John B. Mattern, of Matternville, was severely burned about the face and hands a few days ago while heating linseed oil. It is feared that the sight of one of his eyes is destroyed.

The hog cholera is raging fearfully in Warrior's Mark, Huntingdon county. Mr. Amos Harper has lost 40 head, Emory Davis 24 head, David Crozier 20 head, and still another gentleman whose name I do not remember lost 18; then there are others who lost a smaller number.

Judge A. O. Furst paid our town a visit on Tuesday, October 7. He was not electioneering, but on legal business. Always welcome, Judge; come again.

Mr. Leonard Rhone seems to be doing more electioneering since the nomination than he did before. He was in College township a few days ago and visited this town yesterday en route for Philipsburg. He stopped long enough to take dinner with Capt. Hunter and give himself away to a prominent Republican of this township whom he was trying to coax to vote for him. Now, Mr. Editor, I can't see why any Democrat would not sooner vote for a Republican who comes out fair and declares his principles, that every voter may know where he stands. But such is not the case with Mr. Rhone. He accepted the nomination of the Democratic party and then went to the Republicans and told them that he had not changed his sentiments, and that he is still a Republican; that he run merely because the people want a farmer—as if there is no Democratic farmer in Centre county fit for the office.

The Watchman appeared to be all out of sorts last week. It even attacked the good name of Mr. Furst. It also says that Congressman Brumm repeatedly stated that he would vote for Mr. Blaine. I do not know what Mr. Brumm said outside of the Court House, but I know that he did not say it in the Court House. The Watchman further says that the gentleman from Sullivan county denounced (Bully) Cleveland as a hangman. Not so, gentlemen; it was the delegate from Bradford, who said that Grady terms him, "Cleveland, the hangman." It is very wrong for any newspaper to attack a forsaken rag baby, but the Democratic press will resort to anything when defeat stares it in the face.

Ferguson township appears to be the lucky township of the county. Only a short time ago they had the county treasurer and register and at the present time they have an associate judge. Now they come to the front demanding the sheriff, prothonotary and a commissioner. O, other townships of the county; how oft would we have gathered ye together as a hen would her brood, but ye would not.

Is it not pretty near time for some one to tell a snake story?

—An extra car was attached to the 9:45 a. m. train Wednesday morning and a number of gentlemen stepped from it to the platform. Then the train separated and the gentlemen walked between the two sections to the Bush House. They were the principal officials of the Masonic order of Pennsylvania and they are on a tour of the State. Their special car was shifted to a side track where it remained until they were ready to leave. A few minutes later a reporter of the NEWS had the pleasure of interviewing one or two of the number. The first gentleman to whom he was introduced, on learning his mission, asked anxiously if there was not a convenient jail or church in which the reporter might be incarcerated during their stay in Bellefonte. For information, the reporter was delegated to Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Penn'a, Conrad B. Day, of Philadelphia, who most obligingly told him that the delegation are on a tour of inspection of the lodges of Pennsylvania. Wednesday evening they held what is called a lodge of instruction. They are delighted with what they have thus far seen of Bellefonte and expect to enjoy their visit here. They went from here to Johnstown. Among the number are Clifford P. MacCalla, Thomas R. Patton, Michael Nesbit, George W. Wood, L. M. Chanteau, Wm. A. Linn, Richard Vaux, Wm. J. Kelly, and Ed. Matthews, of Philadelphia; Joseph Eichbaum, of Pittsburg, and John Slinghuff, of Norristown.

—Chief Clerk Tate, of the State Department, Harrisburg, has prepared a series of instruction for prothonotaries regarding the making of election returns. Observance of these rules will prevent much delay and annoyance.

Gatesburg Gossip.

GATESBURG, Oct. 11, 1884.

There was one stalk in George Elenbarger's corn field that measured 12 feet when the corn was cut off. The stalk was green and had no tassel at the time of cutting. If the frost had not threatened it no doubt the height of 15 feet would have been reached by the time the tassel formed.

The soldiers' picnic which "Web" alluded to was not altogether a failure. They realized about $30, of which about one half was entrusted to the care of J. G. Rider, who lost it out of his pocket together with $10 of his own money and it has not been found yet.

On the 9th of October, while Edward Myers was returning home from an errand, he was caught and bit in two places by a large dog. Edward was an excellent boy aged 9 years, and I am glad to hear that he is getting along nicely. The dog will bite no one else. This was rendered certain by the boy's father who owns a double barrel rifle, the contents of both barrels being given to the dog. The dog was owned by George Hasbarger.

Mr. Editor, come up and visit among the good Republicans in this town. They are rolling barrels of juice made from the forbidden fruit into their cellars. I saw Samuel Elenbarger roll two big barrels in his cellar, and he is one of the very best Republicans and likes to turn the spigot when his friends drop in. Come.

The Literary Society met in the school house at Marengo on Friday evening, the 10th, the building being filled with members and those who want to become members. The question debated was, "Resolved, That more can be learned from observation than from reading." Jos. S. Myers and Henry Bistline supported the affirmative and Jacob Harpster and F. Rider the negative. A decision was given in the affirmative.

Events at Spring Mills.

OCTOBER 10, 1884.

There is some talk to the effect that Mr. Dale will move down the valley where he has bought some land.

Mr. Bartholomew, it is rumored, will put up a store building at the Centre Hall station.

The Democratic meeting in the mountain was a fizzle, there being a greater number of anti-Rhone Democrats there than others, and not many altogether. The speakers were Woodward, Fortney and Rhone. Bower was to talk Dutch, but since he has learned to talk broken English he isn't Dutch any longer, and didn't appear. Rhone then talked Dutch, but got stuck. Fortney and Woodward then spouted some and that was the end. The little crowd left rather more independent than they came. The time is past when Bellefonte can pull the wool over the eyes of the valleys, and the more Bellefonters that are sent over here the better for the Republicans.

J. I. Grenoble runs the Rhone machine here, but finds it hard work; all the old-liners are holding back.

Our schools are supplied with a corps of good teachers.

We have one Butler man here. It is Spigelmyer. He won't give up the Greenback ship.

Many of the old-line Democrats think they know how to vote without sending Bellefonters here to tell them.

"Rex" says in the Reporter that Gregg will give the Democratic ticket a big vote, but some will get a black eye, sure.

That Spring Mills has a lawyer is a good joke, but outsiders don't see it.

—There is no doubt in the mind of any business man of the imperative need of competing railroad facilities. He has illustrations of this need every day. And the lack of such facilities affects detrimentally every citizen however humble or exalted. For example, we shall glance at a single business transaction which occurred incidentally in the affairs of one of Bellefonte's business houses. It is in the purchase and sale of stoves, which constitute just now an article of prime and universal necessity, more particularly so with the poor than with the rich in this day of steam heat. The cost of transportation from Buffalo, N. Y., to Bellefonte, consituted the subject of correspondence, and the discrepancy in the rates from Buffalo to Lock Haven, say 350 miles, and the rate from Lock Haven to this place, only 26 miles, is so startling as to attract attention. If the stoves are sent in lots of less than 1000 pounds they can be brought from Buffalo to Lock Haven for 25 cents for 100 lbs., but from Lock Haven to Bellefonte an additional 20 cents per 100 lbs. is charged. But for any shipment of stoves over 1000 lbs. the discrepancy is still more astonishing. The other lines reduce their rates to an extent that enables the goods to be transported from Buffalo to Lock Haven for 15 cents per 100 lbs., but over the Bald Eagle from Lock Haven the freight is same as before—20 cents, making the freight one-third greater over 26 miles of railroad than over 350 miles! Comment is unnecessary, but a railroad seems to be necessary.

—Some of the men who haul ore are compelled to make the horses which they drive exert their greatest efforts to surmount the hill at the South end of Spring street. The fault, which is eventually visited in punishment on the horses, does not always attach to the men who drive the teams, as they are compelled to take contracts for hauling at such low rates as to render it impossible to use more than two horses. Four or six giant mules should be used in this work.

S. B. Durfey, mate of steamer Arizona, had his foot badly jammed. Thomas' Electric Oil cured it. Nothing equals it for a quick pain reliever.

—The score in the game of base ball between the Providence club, champions of the National League, and the Williamsport at the latter place on Tuesday afternoon, the 14th, was 9 to 2 in favor of Providence.

—Tyrone has a ghost that resembles a white elephant and half the people of the town are terrified about it.

—New moon Saturday.

—The red-breasted robin is still visible occasionally.

—It was the 165th ballot that nominated Judge Adam Hoy.

—The Loring Band of the Presbyterian church met on Friday evening at the residence of Mr. F. Mann.

—Millheim has a religious revival and nine of the wicked inhabitants of that place are mourning for their sins.

—The Blaine and Logan demonstration in Altoona on Friday evening was the grandest of the present political campaign.

—Since the railroad has been built so near Centre Hall, the town has commenced to grow and there is now a scarcity of houses.

—Grapes so large that four of them will weigh an ounce hang in large clusters from the vines cultivated by Madisonburg husbandmen.

—The Williamsport base ball club has disbanded for the season after a successful summer's practice. It is recognized as one of the best in the State.

—The Wilkesbarre base ball Association is making efforts to effect a State organization and invites the cooperation of clubs throughout the State.

—We are informed that the Blaine and Logan Club of Milesburg, at the regular meeting on Friday night, endorsed Theodore P. Rynder for Congress.

—A sister of Sheriff Dunkle departed on Thursday to visit her brother in Iowa, and other members of Mr. Dunkle's household expect to go soon.

—Miss Heckman, daughter of Mr. J. F. Heckman, who lives a mile east of Penn Hall, died on Thursday, the 9th, of neuralgia of the heart. She was only 16 years of age.

—Complaints are made by Mrs. John Buckley, of Lock Haven, against the managers of the Danville Insane Asylum because of the ill treatment received by her son while the latter was an inmate of the institution.

—If four weeks are consumed by the Democrats in nominating a candidate for congress and a candidate for judge, how long would it take a Democratic President to appoint 4,000 postmasters? Too long to give him a trial.

—Rev. Herald, of the United Brethren church, of Millheim, is about to remove to Catawissa, Columbia Co. He will be succeeded by Rev. Wm. Lamey, a gentleman from Cumberland county.

—An exchange says: "One of the simplest ways to get rid of rats is to place within their reach a pan of flour mixed with unslaked lime, and a pan of water placed beside it. The lime causes thirst and the rats die almost immediately after they drink."

—Mr. James Milliken is at home again after a brief tour through New York State. While in the Empire State he heard the most encouraging news in regard to the political situation and the indications are that the Republican majority will exceed 50,000.

—Williamsport and Lock Haven have two or three fire alarms daily while Bellefonte doesn't have more than that number in a year. The most serious fire recently was one in Lock Haven on Friday morning at 2 o'clock, the Novelty Iron Works being destroyed.

—And now we hear with regret of the illness of Mr. John Bartruff. He has suffered considerably during the past week with an unusually severe cold in the head. He is somewhat better at the present time and we hope that he will soon be relieved not only of the cold, but also of its evil consequences.

—A Huntingdon lady recently made twenty-one tumblers of quince jelly, which she placed on the porch and covered with a newspaper. About the middle of the afternoon she noticed that the jelly was covered by swarms of bees. In the evening she was astonished to discover that all but one of the glasses had been completely emptied of its contents.

—Osceola Reveille: "On Monday morning, as T. C. Heims and James Young were driving out to the former's coal operation, near town, one of the breast straps broke as they were going down a hill, at which the horses took fright and ran off. Both gentlemen were violently thrown from the buggy and sustained severe injuries, and were lucky that they were not killed under the circumstances."

The Debate at the Academy.

MR. EDITOR.—Your correspondent, on Saturday, noticed in the NEWS a reference to a debate at the Bellefonte Academy, which occurred on the afternoon of the previous day. Permit me to give you further facts in regard to it. The students of the school participated in it, and the question, as stated, was as follows: "Resolved, that skating rinks, as now conducted in our country, are productive of more evil than good in the towns in which they are located." The subject was well discussed on both sides by those who took part, and evinced to all who heard them that the literary culture of the students is not neglected. Quite a variety of strong arguments, pro and con, were produced by all the debaters, but we will reproduce only one or two on either side. Those who supported the affirmative of the question stated that young people, who make the rink their place of resort, are often thrown into bad company and they have been known to deceive their parents or guardians by asking for money ostensibly to go to the rink, but really to spend in saloons and other questionable places. Then, again, they have been known to resort to the same questionable places after leaving the rink at a late hour. The supporters of the affirmative also stated that persons of the very best character are tempted to spend more money in this way than they can afford, thereby injuring themselves and others.

On the negative side of the question the debaters advanced the argument that the exercise found at the rink is of the most healthful kind. That representatives of the very best society are found there, and that it is really the means of affording innocent and profitable enjoyment, and keeping those who engage in it away from places the moral tendency of which is known to be evil. Indeed, these young gentlemen contended that the effect of the rink is wholly good and it is really a means of reforming society.

Rev. Mr. Hughes was the judge and after making a few appropriate remarks and deliberating sufficiently on the subject, decided in favor of the affirmative.

ONE WHO WAS THERE.

—For fickleness the weather of the present season has not been excelled. In the morning it is impossible to tell how many changes the day may bring forth, and the night rivals the day in variableness. It is just the weather that will suit the chronic growler, for if the present moment may be too warm to suit his fastidious tastes the succeeding moment is sure to be just the sort for which he was longing. The mercury soars upward and the exclamation "What a remarkably mild autumn!" has hardly exhausted its echoes before a cold wind sweeps in from some passing iceberg and we momentarily speculate upon the probability of a snow storm in the immediate future. Meanwhile, neuralgic and kindred aches and pains dart through the human system, which cause the medicine man to laugh with fiendish glee, although merchants long for what is called "settled weather"—the time when people conclude that winter clothing is a necessity. But, doubtless, these changes are such as will eventually terminate in the best results for the large human family who depend so much upon the seasons for their prosperity.

—The Centre-Huntingdon Judicial district is certain to have a President Judge chosen from the Republican party the next time. There is great disappointment and vexation among the Democrats of Huntingdon county because of their failure to nominate their favorite, Mr. Bailey, and A. O. Furst, Esq., will receive an immense vote, a large part of which will be given by the Democrats of Huntingdon county. So far as the home of the candidates is concerned, that will not effect them as both of the opposing candidates live in Bellefonte and they will consider the past records of both candidates, their present fitness and the slight which Huntingdon county has received, and will have no difficulty in deciding how to vote. The acknowledged fairness and impartiality of the Republican candidate will eliminate from the contest all political question and the voters will, as they should, be governed only by the three considerations given above.

—Rev. Prof. J. F. Davis has been nominated for Congress by the Greenbackers of Lycoming county and the Democrats of the district to which Lycoming belongs, having no congressional candidate, are expected to endorse him. The Rev. Prof. is a Methodist minister, a school teacher and an insurance agent, but he'll certainly begin to feel that his life has been a great mistake if he becomes a Democratic candidate.

Gen. Beaver in Camden.

There was a great Republican demonstration in Camden, N. J., on Wednesday night, at which Gen. Beaver was one of the speakers. The Philadelphia Press refers to his eloquent remarks as follows:

He had been introduced as one who had "fought a good fight," but, the General added, "I have not finished my course." There had been a new spirit infused by the Ohio result, he said, into the entire party, and even into the retail trade of Philadelphia. That very day he had bought some carpet, and the merchant, in naming the price, remarked that he would have been glad to get rid of it at any figure if Ohio had gone Democratic. General Beaver went on to controvert the notion that the country would flourish as well under the administration of one party as that of another, or that there were no vital issues at stake. The great question, now that the presidency was settled, was how the next Congress would be composed. The states of New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Ohio and the two Virginias, with interests closely allied, could control the legislation of the country for their mutual benefit. Iron, glass, crockery and other manufactures demanded just the protection that such a combination would give. But the Republican party was larger than any such policy of local combination. Its field was all America, and its protective system embraced everything that could be made or raised in this country. General Beaver then discussed the tariff question with great clearness, illustrating his argument with practical examples of the increase in value caused by the application of labor to raw material. He made the point that the principle of the tariff was the protection of labor, and he traced all the recent business depression and troubles between labor and capital to the election of a Democratic House of Representatives. Throughout his speech General Beaver was frequently interrupted by applause.

How They Take It.

Dr. Kirk says he can stand it, as the party to which he belongs is used to such experiences.

Ed. Speer says: "Hand me my overcoat; the weather's cold."

C. M. Bower, Esq., remarked: "It's easy to give Rhone up; but this is too bad."

J. L. Spangler, Esq., cried lustily: "Come to me arms, friend Republicans; we must 'fraternize.'"

Ex-Senator C. T. Alexander: "If they can't nominate either Hoy or Bailey, they might find me available."

D. F. Fortney, Esq: "The words I first uttered have been proved true."

Dem. Chairman Meek: "While I've been cooking Woodward's goose, Ohio's gone back on us."

Editorial Manager George Bible: "I've been a Democrat only six weeks and politics begin to look blue."

Ed. Garman: "Guess I can afford another reduction in the price of misses' and ladies' hosiery."

James Schofield: "Now, if Congressman Hurd pulls through then there will be a chance for me some time."

Miles Walker: "If they don't elect me Sheriff it will impair my chances of securing the next nomination for President of the U. S."

—Our attention has been called to the fact, heretofore unnoticed, that almost every industry and business enterprise of the present day can be found between Water and Spring streets on the north side of High Taking Richards' jewelry establishment as a centre, we find overhead the dressmaking rooms occupied by Mrs. Shields. Adjoining Mr. Richards' is Mrs. Whiteman's Fashion Bazaar (millinery), under which is Green's barber shop and further west is Williams' paint and stationery store. In the rear of Mr. Richards' establishment is Stover's marble yard, over which are rooms occupied by Miss Johnson (dressmaker.) East of the marble yard are Beezer's meat market, Butts' saddlery, Otto's cigar store, a store room which is occupied by a half dozen different sorts of business enterprises in different times in the year, another barbering establishment and then a bank.

—The man for whom Tennyson longed many years ago seems to have been found in Governor Cleveland. The description could not well be more accurate:

"Ah, God! for a man with heart, head, hand,
Like some of the simple great ones gone
For ever and ever by;
One still strong man in a blatant land;
Whatever they call him, what care I?—
Aristocrat, democrat, autocrat—one
Who can rule, and dare not lie."
—Watchman.

But if the poet laureate had dared the dangers of the angry ocean and made the acquaintance of Mr. Cleveland, he would have been compelled to write:

Ah me! how I was deceived in the man!
He's not like the simple great ones gone
For ever and ever by;
He's got more cheek than a government mule,
With the form of a man and mind of a fool;
If elected he'll be only the tool
Of Carlisle, Morrison and such small fry.

—There was much material for profitable reflection in the two sermons delivered on Sunday in the Episcopal church by Rev. Mr. Kline, of Ashland.

An Old Law Still in Force.

It is probably not generally known, but it is nevertheless true, says the County Review, of Curwensville, that the old colonial law of 1729, relative to the marriage of minors is yet in force in Pennsylvania. The supreme court handed down a decision last week on this very act, which decision reads as follows:

"Under the laws of Pennsylvania a marriage between minors is valid. But the marriage must be celebrated by banns one month in advance or with the consent of parents or guardians of the minors. The minister or magistrate so marrying without such consent or without the publication of such banns is subject to a fine of fifty pounds colonial money, amounting to $133.33 United States money. The fact that the minister or magistrate is deceived as to their age is no defense."

The above act was supposed to have been repealed by the act of 1871, in so far, that if the person officiating was deceived as to the parties wishing to be married being minors, the minister or magistrate would be relieved of the penalty. The decision of the court holds the old law to be in force, and that the clergyman or magistrate is not bound to marry couples presenting themselves, and that they must insist as a matter of self protection, on indisputable proofs, of the rights of the parties to enter wedlock, and without such proof by publication or consent of parent or guardian the minister or magistrate subjects himself to the penalty by performing such marriage.

Bellefonte Bombarded.

The enemy have attacked the town. The attacking army have an advantangeous position in the excavation for the Mr. James Harris' new building. The means employed in the attack is in the use of gunpowder or dynamite blasts, and Monday morning the missiles thrown were quite destructive. As our friend, Mr. Samuel Williams, was standing in his new stationery store conversing with a Philadelphia gentleman, a stone weighing about 30 pounds came whizzing through the air, breaking through the window at the rear end of the room, crashing into a small can of red paint and then falling to the floor. "Is that an earthquake?" inquired Mr. Philadelphia in accents of terror. "Oh, no; that's only what occurs every day in Bellefonte," replied Mr. Williams. At the same time a still larger stone came crashing into a smaller room west of the paint room, knocking a window sash and a show case into minute particles.

Later in the day another blast resounded in that vicinity and a huge piece of rock whizzed and whirled toward the innocent and harmless electric light poll near the corner of Water and High streets, knocking a large piece out of it. The reason it didn't hit Mr. Showers was because he happened to be standing behind the pole instead of in front of it.

Come, gentlemen, we'll put up the white flag and surrender if you'll let up on this bombardment.

A Pastor's Resignation.

Much to the surprise and regret of the congregation of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran church of Bellefonte, their pastor, Rev. S. E. Furst, offered his resignation last Sabbath morning to take effect January 1st.

Immediately after church, the subject of Mr. Furst's resignation was brought before the church council, to take such action as would seem for the best interest of the congregation. The council, after expressing its regrets that their pastor felt that duty required him to take this course, resolved to bring the matter before the congregation on Sabbath, Nov. 9th, for further consideration.

Rev. Mr. Furst served the congregation as a supply for five months. Following this, he was pastor for three years, under the supervision of the Board of Home Missions, and since January 1st, 1882, he has served the congregation as a self-sustaining pastorate. During all these years his labors have been most acceptable to an appreciative congregation.

It is to be hoped that when the matter is formally brought before the congregation such action will be taken as will lead him to withdrawn his resignation.

—A double wedding, in which Milesburg parties were the principals took place on Wednesday evening at Howard, Rev. W. A. Ridge officiating. The parties who thus mutually pledged themselves to each other for better or for worse were Mr. Lew Bullock and Miss Shirk, and Mr. James Weaver, Jr., and Miss Allie Wagner. All the contracting parties are well and favorably known, and have the best wishes of a host of acquaintances. Mr. and Mrs. Lew Bullock and Mr. and Mrs. James Weaver will please accept the congratulation of their friend, the NEWS.

—The darkness of Friday night was occasionally relieved by lightning flashes.

H. T. Harvey, Esq., of Lock Haven, will be one of the speakers on the occasion of the Republican mass meeting next Thursday evening, Oct. 23.

Mr. Clif Thomas, son J. V. Thomas, Esq., mingled among his friends in this place on Thursday. "Clif" is a rising and very deserving young man.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cedars, of Bishop street, departed for Philadelphia on Saturday, where they expect to enjoy themselves during the next week or ten days.

Mr. Walter Bayard, of Philipsburg, visited his parents and other relatives on Friday. Walter is as pleasant and good-looking as ever and his friends here are always pleased to see him.

Chas. Hewes, Esq., is entertaining his friend Mr. Stewart Pierce, son of Rev. John J. Pierce, of Lewistown. Among Mr. Pierce's numerous other merits, the fact that he is an enthusiastic Blaine and Logan Republican is not the least.

That frequent and ever welcome visitor, Mr. Miller, of the firm of Spiece, Miller & Co., Philadelphia, spent Sunday in Bellefonte. He comported himself with excellent decorum while here, attending Reformed church in the morning and Episcopal in the evening.

Mr. Frank Cunningham, formerly of this place, but who has been residing in the South during the Summer, came home on Saturday evening, suffering acutely with Southern fever, or malaria. Although now quite ill, it is believed that a few weeks in this healthful climate will restore him to his former buoyant health.

Mr. William B. Miles, the well known and enterprising merchant of Milesburg, accompanied by one of his sons, Mr. Thomas Miles, departed on Monday for Philadelphia. It is a trip of combined business and pleasure, and their store in Milesburg will soon show the result of it in an increased supply of new and seasonable goods.

Mr. Samuel Hess, a resident of Ferguson township, this county, pleased his Bellefonte friends by his presence among them Monday. Mr Hess is 85 years of age and rejoices in the possession of good health. Despite the fact that he is a life-long Democrat, he is in excellent spirits, and has had sufficient political experience to acknowledge that continued Republican rule is what will benefit the country.

Mr. Joseph Gross, a member of Company B, N. G., of this place and a great favorite among those who know him in Bellefonte, is now greeting his friends in this vicinity. He is engaged at his trade in one of the large bakeries in Altoona and only visits his home occasionally. He visited Penn Cave the other day with a party of Philadelphia friends, who consider that natural curiosity the equal of Niagara Falls in its attractions.

On Saturday we were pleased to meet Mr. John Bechtel, of Eagleville, in Bellefonte. What rendered his presence at that time of more than ordinary interest is the fact that he has just returned from an extended tour through the West, his travels including seven or eight of the western and northwestern States and territories. He looks as if he enjoyed his tour, but we doubt if he found any spot more favored by nature and art than his own Centre county home.

A Great Success.

Mr. James Henderson, whom we can now claim as a citizen of this place, has reason to be much pleased with his new process of manufacturing steel. It has only recently been tested at Birdsboro with great success as the following telegram, from Reading, dated the 14th, will show:

The new Henderson process of making steel, which is controlled by a dozen leading iron firms of Eastern Pennsylvania, and which is to take the place of the Bessemer process, was successfully tested to-day at Birdsboro. The blooms rolled nicely. The sheets were then cut into nail plate, and iron and steel nails of excellent character were manufactured. The new kind of steel is more pliable, cheaper and more easily worked than Bessimer steel, while it is as tough. The expectation is that it will take the place of hammered and rolled iron altogether.

This process converts a poor quality of pig iron into steel of the finest quality. The process is new and is one of the many scientific discoveries of Mr. Henderson, who has given to the world at least twelve separate processes of this kind, some of which have been proved to be of inestimable value and are now in use in this country and in Europe. Among other advantages over the Bessemer process is that Mr. Henderson's process is as well adapted for small works as for those of large dimensions. It can be manufactured into nails, wire, &c.

Among former processes discovered by Mr. Henderson was one known as Tagersta steel, eighteen years ago. It is now used by manufacturers in Sweden. Specimens of steel manufactured by the Tagersta process were exhibited at the Centennial, and were pronounced very superior, standing the highest tests.

All the recent tests at the factory here of what is known as the Henderson process have been successful.

—We are requested to copy the following from the Watchman, which we do, accompanying the announcement with our best wishes for the happiness of the fortunate couple whose future bliss so greatly depends upon it: "We are happy to inform the anxious public that the world still moves; hence a new firm has been established at the Snow Shoe Intersection. Daniel Rhodes, only son, and child of Michael Lebkeichler of that place, sought to augment his fortune by taking unto himself a better half, in joining in wedlock with Miss Anna M. Fleck of the same place; the nuptial ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Zeigler at his residence on the evening of Thursday, the 9th day of October, A. D., 1884. The bride and groom made a fine appearance, and blessed and joyous be all their days of social union."

—This (Wednesday) afternoon, at 5 o'clock, an event of importance will occur at the residence of our well known fellow citizen, Mr. Adolph Loeb, on Spring St. It will be the marriage of Miss Rosina Grauer to Mr. J. H. Bauland, of Chicago. The ceremony will be conducted on a scale of considerable elegance and eclat. One hundred guests will be present. The collation will be prepared under the auspices of Mr. C. G. McMillen, the proprietor of the Brockerhoff House, and his skillful chef, Mr. Burton.

—O, yes! taffy parties are in order. After you have made sufficient taffy it may be well to pop a hopper full of corn. Then, with a plate full of apples before you and a good supply of walnuts, hickory nuts and chestnuts, seasoned with a pitcher of sweet cider and a pretty girl, your cup of pleasure may well be full.

—The statement that on the election of the Hon. James G. Blaine Grover Cleveland will take to wife the Hon. Belva Lockwood and retire to decent life, is now openly denied by Gen. Butler. But the General's personal relations to Belva are such that one must take all these stories with liberal allowance.

—Although chestnuts are comparatively abundant the worms are numerous enough to distribute themselves at rate of about one to each nut.
